Bennett Beams As PGE Extends

FORT ST. JAMES, B.C. (CP) — A flash of color and several announcements by a beaming Premier W. A. C. Bennett marked the opening of the Pacific Great Eastern Railway's 78-mile extension into this community 350 miles north of Vancouver Thursday.

More than 500 people of this village, once the fur-trading capital of New Caledonia, turned out to meet the premier and his 200 guests as a gold-painted spike was hammered into the roadbed.

The $14,300,000 extension from Prince George gives the PGE a total of 504 rail miles from its southern terminus in North Vancouver, B.C.

The premier, who said he had to hold himself in check, declared it a great day for Fort St. James.

"I have a clear mind, I hope, a warm heart and as minister of finance, an open purse," he said.

INTEREST USED
The premier then announced a $25,000,000 trust fund to help native B.C. Indians will be established at the next session of the provincial legislature.

He said the "First Citizens Fund" will be perpetual, providing annual interest of $1,500,000.

An advisory board of government officials and Indians will administer the fund "to further assist in the education and employment of our native Indians," the premier said.

The cabinet approved a $310,000 sewage disposal bylaw for Fort St. James and the premier announced the provincial government will buy the whole bond issue.

The premier also announced he plans a three-week tour of Europe early in September. He will visit Britain, Holland and "two or three other countries on the continent" to test the financial and business climate there.

The rail line, which ran between Squamish, B.C., 30 miles north of Vancouver, and Prince George 5 years ago, now has called tenders for clearing right-of-way for another extension from Fort St. James to Takla Lake, 73 miles to the west.

It is also surveying extensions from Fort St. John, B.C. to Fort Nelson, B.C., 90 miles south of the Yukon border. The premier has also proposed an extension from Takla Lake to Stewart, B.C., on the coast.

Seriously Injured Woman Gives Birth To Healthy Baby

KINGSTON, Ont. (CP) — Rosanne Smith, 21, of Ottawa, given one night to live by doctors after suffering massive injuries in a car accident last March, has given birth to a healthy baby boy, hospital authorities reported Thursday.

Doctors at Hotel Dieu Hospital, where Mrs. Smith had the baby, Bruce Cameron Smith, Monday night, called the birth a miracle.

Mrs. Smith and her husband Bruce, 22, were returning to Ottawa March 24 from a weekend in Toronto when their car skidded on an ice patch on Highway 5, about 45 miles southwest of the capital, and rolled over before striking a tree.

Doctors at Hotel Dieu told relatives that Mrs. Smith, 18 weeks pregnant, probably could not survive the night.

She was unconscious and paralyzed with serious brain damage and extensive head and chest injuries, including a broken collar bone, broken jaw and broken ribs.

For five weeks Mrs. Smith was unconscious. After two months of intensive care, Mrs. Smith, whose husband received hospital treatment for only a week for minor injuries, was transferred to the rehabilitation centre at Kingston General Hospital.

She was there until last week when she returned to Hotel Dieu to give birth. Next week, she and her son, who weighed eight pounds, four ounces at birth, will go back to the general hospital to continue treatment.

She will look after him herself, even though she is still walking with the aid of elbow crutches.

Doctors hope both the mother and son will be able to return home by September.

Two Children Die In Cariboo Crash

100 MILE HOUSE, B.C. (CP) — Police today released the names of the two children killed Thursday in a three-vehicle collision on the Cariboo Highway, 11 miles north of here.

Killed were Jack McLeellan, 4, of Burnaby, B.C., and Ronald Hall, 6, of Vancouver, both passengers in a camper truck driven by Walter Michaluk of Vancouver.

A witness said a logging truck collided with a car, sending the car across the highway to crash head-on with the camper truck. Two other persons were injured in the accident.

Rollback Of Steel Price Hike Aim Of LBJ's Counter Attack

WASHINGTON (CP-AP) — In a major confrontation with the U.S. steel industry, President Johnson has authorized an effort to try to force a rollback of increased steel prices by having the federal government boycott firms who boost their costs.

President Johnson Thursday told the defence department to avoid buying steel products from firms who put in major price increases. He said such general boosts could have "dire consequences" for the economy because of possible inflationary results.

The defence department, with an annual military budget of more than $70,000,000,000 because of the Vietnam war, purchases an estimated 3,700,000 tons of steel a year—or 3.75 per cent of the country's total production.

Defence Secretary Clark Clifford followed the president's statement by directing his agency "wherever possible to shift orders for future deliveries of items of steel on which prices have been raised to companies which have not increased prices, if by doing so you can obtain the required product, on time, at a lower cost to the government."

The Pentagon took similar actions in April, 1962, and January, 1966, in efforts to force steel producers to relent on announced price increases.

DUBCEK'S PLEDGE

Czech Army Our Guarantee...

PRAGUE (Reuters) — Communist party leader Alexander Dubcek today assured his nation, in his first public statement after four days of meetings with the Soviet Union, that the Czechoslovak Army is a firm guarantee of the country's security.

Dubcek spoke on the radio at the urgent request of many groups of Communist party members who, together with many of the general public, were dismayed at lack of news about what concessions, if any, were made to the Russians at the Cerna Nad Tisou summit.

The Czechoslovak leader, who took the unusual step of broadcasting over Prague radio at 1 p.m., when not every worker can reach his set, said his party and country needs the Soviet alliance and will do everything to strengthen it.

The broadcast was arranged hastily today before he left for Bratislava, the capital of Slovakia to attend yet another top wake of the still Soviet Cerna confab of Communists to dis-

U.S. Leaders 'Shameless Liars' Claims Hanoi Envoy In Paris

PARIS (Reuters) — Hanoi today denounced "U.S. threats to intensify the war in Vietnam" and called American leaders "shameless liars."

Nguyen Thanh Le, North Vietnamese spokesman at the preliminary peace talks here, told a news conference that the United States must take full responsibility for the "consequences which it will have caused."

Commenting on a statement Wednesday by President Johnson and an earlier press conference by U.S. State Secretary Dean Rusk, the spokesman said: "Every time the U.S. makes an appeal for peace, it steps up the war."

He added: "This shows that the U.S. leaders are shameless liars."

On behalf of the North Vietnamese government, spokesman Thanh Le said in a statement: "I energetically reject the demand for reciprocity made by the United States government, denounce its threats to intensify the war of aggression, and declare that the United States must bear full responsibility for all the consequences it will cause."

He reiterated Hanoi's demand for an unconditional U.S. bombing halt before the Paris talks could move to other questions concerning the two parties.

Asked to define what he described as "full responsibility," the spokesman said, "We shall see in the future."

Postal Strike Marks Time

OTTAWA (CP) — Both sides in the postal strike marked time today with no indication of new mediation talks.

One informant said Thursday the postal unions intend to sit tight until the government comes up with a new wage offer.

Mediation efforts under Judge Rene Lippe of Montreal collapsed Wednesday when the unions rejected a revised wage offer of 19 per cent spread over 38 months. They want a 25-per cent boost in a 14-month contract retroactive to Aug. 1 last year.

Expressed in money terms, the government offer is worth about 49 cents an hour on average pay of $2.57. The union demand is equal to 75 cents.

Negotiating teams for the Council of Postal Unions and the government's treasury board held separate meetings Thursday to assess the situation. There were no signs that either was prepared to revise positions.

It is up to Judge Lippe to decide whether mediation should be resumed and when. He said Wednesday he remained hopeful that talks could be revived soon.

Both teams have agreed to remain available for a quick recall. Prime Minister Trudeau still has made no direct comment on the breakdown of mediation. An aide said Wednesday the prime minister probably would spend a couple of days studying the situation.

Sixteen Out Of 98 Killed In Crash En Route To Canada

MILAN (AP) — An Alitalia DC-8 jetliner flying to Montreal from Rome crashed and burned today during a violent thunderstorm as it was approaching Milan's Malpensa Airport with 95 persons aboard. Alitalia said at least 82 survived.

The airline said it was searching for more survivors. Of the 82 known to have survived 57 were reported in hospitals. The other 25 were virtually uninjured and were brought to the airport, six miles from the scene of the crash.

In its latest count, Alitalia said there were 85 passengers and 10 crew members aboard. Of the passengers aboard only 54 had been scheduled to go on to Montreal. The rest were to have disembarked at Milan, the flight's only stop between Rome and Canada.

The plane crashed into a steep, tree-covered hill called Monte San Giacomo near Lake Camabbio, several miles from the end of a stretch of super-highway.

Because of heavy thunderstorms the day was nearly as black as night.

LOST CONTACT
The control tower reported it lost radio contact with the sleek, swept-wing plane at 4:08 p.m.

Seventeen minutes later the plane, Flight 660, was reported smashed and burning six miles north of the airport which lies 36 miles northwest of Milan.

First reports said some of the passengers were hurled clear of the plane when it plowed into the woods and burst into flame. Police said the wreckage was still burning an hour after the crash.

Firemen, policemen and ambulances from surrounding communities rushed to the scene.

A group of 18 survivors, apparently none seriously injured, were brought to the airport in cars. Another 15, including the pilot, were rushed to hospital at Gallarate.

Alitalia officials said the plane was flying about 200 yards off the ground when apparently it was hit by a violent downdraft from the storm that pulled it to earth.

The first rescuers who reached the scene reported that a large section of the fuselage had remained remarkably intact.

One survivor who arrived at Malpensa said: "I only know that they told us to fasten our seat belts for the landing. And then there was the crash against the trees. That's all I remember."

It was the first commercial airline crash in Italy since a Trans World Airlines jet crashed taking off from Rome on Nov. 23, 1964, with a loss of 48 lives.

MANILLA DISASTER

Quake Victims May Total 400

MANILA (CP) — Rescue workers dug through the rubble of a five-storey apartment house that collapsed in Manila today during the Philippines' worst earthquake in memory.

One Filipino said he saw 12 bodies removed from the wreckage, and a police spokesman said it was believed that about 200 persons were killed throughout the Philippines.

Reuters news agency reported the death toll was feared to be closer to 400. It probably will take days for a reliable casualty toll to be compiled.

It was believed that most fatalities occurred in an apartment building that collapsed in the capital's Chinese quarter, but estimates of the number of tenants ranged from 400 to 1,100 and reports of the number of missing varied just as widely.

The quake came at 4:21 a.m., while most people were in bed, and lasted almost a minute. It registered six on a scale of nine, and was felt throughout the main island of Luzon.

The tremors toppled the spire of the Church of Christ Cathedral in Manila, jumbled cement walls throughout the city, twisted steel bars and shattered countless windows.

It set off a fire in Manila Harbor, and authorities said about $7,500,000 in imported cargo burned. Two fires at the big Far Eastern University in downtown Manila damaged the science and arts buildings.

In Manila, newly constructed buildings appeared hardest hit. At the collapsed apartment building, police at first said at least 200 were confirmed dead and 1,000 were believed missing. Later officers agreed these figures were far too high.

President Ferdinand E. Marcos and his wife visited the wrecked apartment building. He also ordered the schools closed in Manila.

Further operations on his knee have forced Bobby Orr to cancel his appearance at the annual Hockey Spectacular in Kelowna. In a telegram to organizer Blair Peters today, Orr said he would be unable to keep his scheduled appearance.

The James Norris Trophy winner in the National Hockey League was to have been the guest referee at the game.

Orr joins Larry Hale, Larry Lund and Bill Dineen, all of the Western Hockey League, as players who have been forced to cancel their appearances.

Pat McMahon of the Kelowna Buckaroos, Don Clivechok of Trail and Jim Eagle of San Diego have been named as replacements.

After exploring all avenues, the Kelowna International Regatta Association has been unable to obtain a sanction from the American Power Boat Association to hold limited class hydroplane races, Aug. 10-11, 1968.

This is the first time in more than 20 years that Canada's greatest water show has not been granted a race sanction.

General chairman Murray Joyce announced today that plans are already well in hand for an alternate program for the Saturday afternoon to include open water, stage and pool activities.

Bennett's Pollution Move 'Nothing But Tragic Joke'

David Anderson, Liberal member of Parliament for Esquimalt-Saanich, said Thursday in Victoria Premier Bennett's demand for a federal-provincial conference on pollution is nothing but a "tragic joke mocking the people of B.C. Since when did Mr. Bennett attend federal-provincial conferences anyway?" Mr. Anderson asked. "In the light of past performance his statement is a joke, just another red herring," Mr. Anderson said. The federal government 15 months ago offered to pay for a full-scale survey of pollution problems in B.C. but the provincial government so far "hasn't even responded." "It's time to lay the cards on the table instead of this assinine behavior," Mr. Anderson said.

British Columbia Civil Liberties Association Thursday threatened to "close down" this year's Pacific National Exhibition in Vancouver with picketing unless PNE directors reverse a decision banning political groups from the fairgrounds. Dr. Hal Weinberg, an association spokesman, said his organization plans to picket the two-week exhibition, which opens Aug. 17, in force if the PNE "insists on discriminatory actions against these groups." In June, four groups—the B.C. Peace Council, Communist Party of Canada, Co-Operative Book Store and the Vancouver branch of the Women's International League for Peace and Freedom—were refused permission to exhibit.

Judy Stokes, 18, who wants to become an airline stewardess, was crowned queen of the five-day Penticton Peach Festival which opened Wednesday. More than 2,000 persons watched the beauty contest.

Roger Williams, 20, was committed for high court trial Wednesday in Vancouver in the stabbing death April 8 of his 18-year-old girlfriend, Linda Ann Wood, outside her home. Police claim the incident took place after Miss Wood broke off her engagement to Williams.

Secretary-General Gale Plaza of the Organization of American States is planning a personal appeal to Prime Minister Trudeau for Canada to join the OAS. Aides to Plaza said Thursday in Washington the former United Nations troubleshooter, elected early this year to the top OAS post, will visit Ottawa to meet with Trudeau, but no date has been set. Recurring interest in the OAS received a new boost when Trudeau, after taking over as prime minister, pledged his government "to the continuation and development of the constructive co-operation which exists between the OAS and Canada."

Children living with a smoker who smokes in their presence are sick much more often than children living in homes where there is no smoking, says a study headed by a Wayne State University professor. A research team directed by Dr. Paul Cameron, a university psychology professor, reported Thursday that children exposed to tobacco smoke have respiratory diseases about twice as frequently as children not exposed. The findings were based on a survey of 727 Detroit families, Cameron said. The study also showed that for those children exposed to tobacco smoke, the more smoke they were exposed to, the greater their chance of being ill.

Pope Paul may issue another document—possibly a new encyclical—in the wake of the worldwide uproar caused by his ban on artificial birth control, Vatican sources said Thursday. The informants referred to the Pope's comment Wednesday that his birth control encyclical Humane Vitae—Of Human Life —was not the definite word on family life. They said it could be taken as a hint that another document is in prospect.

Maurice Cardinal Roy said in Montreal Thursday Pope Paul's recent ruling on birth control may delay the ecumenical movement. The Archbishop of Quebec City and primate of the Roman Catholic church of Canada added that there is little likelihood that any future pope will reverse Pope Paul's ban on artificial birth control devices.

Northern Development Minister Jean Chretien leaves today for the Canadian North on an 11-day fact-finding tour. Mr. Chretien, who took over the job in July, will travel about 8,000 miles and visit 30 communities and the Yukon. An aide in Ottawa said the minister has spent some time with Prime Minister Trudeau Wednesday, discussing Mr. Trudeau's recent Arctic tour.

Treasury Secretary Henry H. Fowler said Thursday in Washington the United States will benefit from a slackening in economic growth in coming months because "the name of the game is disinflation." But he saw a fresh inflationary threat in newly-announced steel price increases. Fowler told a news conference the recently enacted 10-per-cent tax surcharge is already bringing, or working with other forces to bring, change for the better at home and abroad.

Two men, badly burned when a gasoline-storage tank exploded, died in hospital in Dallas Thursday night. Steve Pleringer, 28, and Harry Blissard, 40, died about 25 hours after the tank exploded and sent a huge fire ball rolling over them at Fort Worth. At least 30 other persons were burned, including four who remained in critical condition.

U.S. Defence Secretary Clark M. Clifford has ordered U.S. defence department spending for steel shifted to companies which hold the line on steel prices. The order came Thursday in the wake of general price increases ordered by some steel firms—increases which government officials protested as unnecessary and inflationary. The companies said they are needed to meet the costs of a new labor contract.

Grain Handlers To Talk Again

FORT WILLIAM (CP) — Representatives of striking grain handlers and Lakehead elevators will return to the negotiating table today, federal mediator D. S. Tysoe said early this morning.

No time for resumption of talks was given. The negotiations between the two sides broke down July 19, a day after 1,300 grain handlers walked off their jobs to back pay demands. Mr. Tysoe of Vancouver said he had approached both sides in the dispute Tuesday and received favorable response. Further talks Thursday were followed by the announcement that Lakehead Terminal Elevator Association and the striking union would resume negotiations.

Mr. Tysoe said the dispute "is a difficult one to deal with since 97 per cent of the grain handlers had voted to strike rather than accept a conciliation board recommendation."

He would not predict an early settlement in the strike, adding: "It would be a little optimistic to expect an early and easy answer. There are solid and important differences between the two parties."

Two-Price Gold System Appears To Be Going Well

NEW YORK (AP) — The U.S. treasury department's recent announcement that the U.S. supply of gold increased by $213,000,000 in June indicates that the gamble the United States and its allies made in setting up a two-price gold system is paying off.

The so-called two-tier gold price system was established by central bankers of leading countries in March to shore up the official price of gold at $35 an ounce after a run on gold by private speculators. The United States was faced with a dwindling gold supply and the threat that it would have to raise the price of gold, an action that would be equal to devaluing the dollar and setting off a worldwide economic crisis.

The central bankers agreed to retain the official price of gold at $35 an ounce for monetary purposes and let the market for gold for other uses set its own level on a supply and demand basis.

South Africa, the world's leading gold producer, would like to see the official price of gold raised. Officials there have privately termed the two-tier pricing system "a fluke."

TEST IS SECRET In an apparent attempt to drive gold prices up, Finance Minister Nicholas Diederichs reported recently that South Africa had secretly tested the new free market with a "substantial amount" of gold sales. He further said South Africa would not begin official sales "for a considerable time to come."

U.S. financial and marketing experts do not believe the South African announcement will have substantial effect on the free market. It came after the price of gold on the world markets dropped to its lowest level in three months, hitting a low of $37.75 on the London exchange. After rising to $39.10 on the London exchange, the price slipped to $38.70 at the afternoon fixing on moderate trading.

Some European sources were skeptical of the South African announcement. They could not see how South Africa's test sales could have been substantial without more gold showing up in major central bank holdings.

MARKET PRESSURED In New York, Richard Scruggs, business and market analyst with Goodbody and Co., an investing firm, said there are a number of influences which would tend to exert downward pressures on the gold market.

"The prevailing view is that South Africa still is sitting on a considerable hoard of gold which they will feel compelled to release in the months ahead," he said. Scruggs said there's a good chance Russia, another leading producer of gold, also may come back into the market to finance the purchase of wheat. Russia has not sold any gold since 1965.

NEW KELOWNA AIRPORT TO BE OCCUPIED SOON

Equipment Being Moved Into New Airport Building

Equipment is being moved into the new Kelowna Airport building prior to occupancy about the week of Aug. 20.

Airport manager E. N. Davison said meteorological equipment is being installed now both inside the new building and on the compound alongside.

Don Todd, officer in charge of the meteorological station, arrived Monday from the department of transport in Vancouver. He will start issuing weather reports Monday but not from the new building for a while. He will use existing equipment in the old building until the new equipment is ready for use.

Mr. Davison said airport equipment will be moved into the new building in stages for the next two to three weeks.

CP Air has moved some equipment into the building. A circular reservations table, a rotating desk, was installed this week.

The Kelowna Airport, a $1,500,000 project, is to be officially opened in September.

The meteorological service is one of two acquisitions which have come as a result of the airport's growth. A mobile control tower is expected about the same time as the airport is officially opened.

The meteorological station is the city's first official weather service and is primarily to provide information for aviation but is expected to expand in April to provide a public weather service. The nearest one is now in Penticton.

Assisting Mr. Todd with the weather service will be three airport attendants. In a year, the weather office is expected to have a full complement of eight to 10 men provided by D.O.T.

The control tower is being sent on a temporary basis, but may be followed by a permanent tower. The tower controls all air traffic within a visual radius, directing take-offs and landings. The nearest control tower is in Kamloops.

Magistrate White found both guilty, but suspended sentence for one week so a probation report can be produced.

Fuson was also found guilty of assaulting a police officer in the performance of his duty. RCMP Const. Howard Johnson said he gave chase to the youth who kicked him, struggled, shouted obscenities and threatened his life.

Fuson's only defence was that he was intoxicated and was trying to avoid arrest for drinking under age. "You could run and put up a struggle," he was told by the magistrate. "I can't accept that as a defence."

The sentence was put over for a week, and a further charge of damaging police property was left for decision until this afternoon.

A charge of failing to report a motor vehicle accident against Della Bradford, Kelowna, was dropped after Magistrate White decided there was no intent by Mrs. Bradford to evade responsibility.

Found guilty of driving on the wrong side of the road was Ron Toole, Kelowna, who was fined $50. Toole failed to negotiate his car around a corner on July 24.

Mechanical Grape Picker Will Be Tried Out Here

A machine may replace people for the harvesting of grapes in the Okanagan.

Beau Sejour Vineyards Ltd., Okanagan Mission, are negotiating with a New York manufacturing firm, to have a mechanical harvesting machine here by fall on a trial basis.

The machine costs $23,000. Lloyd Schmidt, manager for the vineyard firm, says the mechanical harvesters may be in use this year in Eastern Canada, but the arrival of one here would be a first for B.C.

Beau Sejour has 70 producing acres and has contracts with growers who have another 340. Mr. Schmidt runs 130 acres in Okanagan Mission.

One of the things which has to be tried out, is to see if the machine can operate on the sloping hillsides in the Okanagan.

The harvesters straddle the grape trellises while nylon paddles knock the fruit off the vine. The machine can only be used for grape-picking.

One machine can pick an acre an hour, a job which would require five men working all day manually.

The harvester will be used on a trial basis in Beau Sejour vineyards first. If adopted, one machine could harvest all the firm's growers, Mr. Schmidt said. The firm alone pays $4,000 a year to about 35 pickers for the harvest period.

The new harvester is not expected to cause much unemployment because of the small number of pickers involved, most of whom are semi-retired. The harvest lasts about 35 days. Grapes for the fresh market will continue to be hand-picked.

The postal strike has brought negotiations for the mechanical harvester to a halt, but Mr. Schmidt says there is still a strong possibility the machine will be here this fall.

Another labor-saving innovation at Beau Sejour is an overhead irrigation system started in June.

The $70,000 system involves 13 miles of aluminum piping with 1,200 nozzles. Ranging in diameter from one and one-quarter to two inches, the pipes are carried on top of the vine rows, clamped to six-foot poles spaced through rows 500 feet long.

Water from a nearby lake is pumped at the rate of 600 gallons a minute into the system.

The overhead system replaces the aluminum pipe method, where pipes were laid on the ground and were carried from one place in the orchard to another.

The new method saves time, with Sunday and late-night work almost eliminated. Another possible use of the overhead system is sprinkling the vines in the event of a spring frost.

The water would coat the vines in ice to protect them from temperatures of below 32 degrees.

Goods Stolen From Two Cars

Two Kelowna residents learned the dangers of leaving cars unlocked and unattended Thursday and early today when both had goods stolen.

A stereo tape recorder worth $70 was taken from a car belonging to Vern Olson, of Moyers Road. He left his car parked in front of the Royal Anne Hotel and the theft occurred early today. RCMP report they have no suspects in the robbery.

Greg Simard, Kelowna, reported more than $100 worth of clothing was stolen from his car about noon Thursday. The car was parked in the lot next to the Pizzeria Joint. Police are investigating.

An early morning scramble brought police to the Kelowna Credit Union Building on Ellis Street when the burglar alarm in the building sounded. But no burglar was to be found. "It was a false alarm," said Credit Union spokesman P. R. Smith. "This happens five or six times a year."

THE VALLEY SCENE

Postal workers in Kelowna have a problem. How to walk around the post office building for two hours in the hot Okanagan sunshine. Two men settled the problem Friday—they didn't walk they sat. Both took shelter on a rail fence well under the shade of an ornamental tree on the post office lawn.

Residents on Abbott Street are keeping their boulevards green these days but they are making it hard for pedestrians using the sidewalk. They are putting sprinklers for long periods of time on the boulevard and pedestrians have to walk on the road to keep from getting a soaking. One little old lady was a little hesitant about walking on the road as there were cars coming and going. After some time she hurriedly skirted the sprinklers and went on her way. Very annoyed we presume.

Walking barefoot these days has its disadvantages—like hot pavement. A young girl, walking along Ellis Street Thursday, stopped often in shady spots to cool her feet. There's a good chance she's wearing shoes to day.

Districts Agree To Water Board

The North Okanagan Regional District has agreed to join with two other regional districts to form the Okanagan Basin Water Board.

The decision was taken after a meeting in Kelowna Tuesday.

The idea of a water board, as an organ of the three Okanagan Regional Districts, was proposed by Ray Williston, minister of lands, forests and water resources at a meeting in Penticton in June.

The Central Okanagan Regional District and the Okanagan Similkameen Regional District agreed to the proposal in principle. The North Okanagan Regional District turned the proposal down at first.

The meeting in Kelowna Tuesday was to see if some grounds for agreement could be found. Apparently the meeting was successful in its aim.

Mayor William Halina of Vernon said Thursday "We can now proceed together."

He said the constitution was being prepared by Douglas Stuart of Penticton and when it was finished, another meeting would be held.

The Vernon mayor said those attending the Kelowna meeting Tuesday agreed any capital costs would have to be approved by the water board and go before the people for approval and that operating costs, unknown now, would have to be agreed upon by the board.

Also agreed upon was the representation on the water board. There are to be two members from each regional district, one of whom is to be from the largest city within the regional district.

No date has been set for the next meeting, the mayor said.

Building In Rural Areas At Record-Setting Pace

Building construction in the rural area surrounding Kelowna is continuing at a record-setting pace.

In Community Planning Area Number One, Winfield to Westbank, $5,169,540 in building permit values have been issued since Jan. 1.

In July a total of 143 permits were issued, for a value of $735,676.

Comparative figures for the same period last year were $509,108 for the month and $3,863,120 for the year to date.

A breakdown on July's permits, shows 53 were issued for new homes for a total value of $648,402.

Additions to homes added $12,450 in seven permits and ancillaries, $10,600 in 11 permits.

There were four permits for additions to commercial buildings valued at $64,224 and 68 permits for plumbing jobs.

Totals for building permit values in July 1966 were $466,142; 1965, $241,810; 1964, $285,788 and 1963, $176,256.

The accumulative totals to the end of July 1967 were $3,863,120; 1966, $2,839,530; 1965, $2,539,255; 1964, $2,231,294 and 1963, $1,558,870.

James Drinkwater Resident Of Kelowna Area 60 Years

Funeral services were held Friday in Kelowna for James Drinkwater, aged 79, a resident of the Kelowna district for 60 years.

He died in the Kelowna General Hospital July 24.

Mr. Drinkwater was born in England in 1888 and came to the Okanagan in 1908. He returned overseas in 1915 serving with the Second Field Ambulance Corps CEF.

Mr. Drinkwater married Dorothy Goldstone in England in 1917 and returned in 1919 with his wife to Oyania where they operated an apple orchard for eight years. In 1928, Mr. Drinkwater joined the staff of the Canada Department of Agriculture, fruit and vegetable division at Kelowna. He retired in 1954 at which time he was supervising inspector.

Mr. Drinkwater enjoyed a life-long interest in beekeeping and as one of the pioneer beekeepers in the central Okanagan, served for many years as a member of the B.C. Honey Producers Association.

Mr. Drinkwater is survived by his wife, Dorothy, a son, Michael in Calgary and two grandsons, and a sister in England.

Funeral services were from St. Michael and All Angels Church and were conducted by the Rev. R. E. F. Berry. Cremation followed.

Palbearers were L. C. A. Collett, F. G. DeHart, C. P. Cookson, R. J. E. Stone, Nick Biesick and Marcel Biesick.

Three MPs Asked To Attend Talks

Three members of parliament have been asked to attend a meeting here today of the Okanagan Water Resources Committee.

Chairman Everard Clarke of Vernon has invited Leonard Marchand, Kamloops; Douglas Stewart, Okanagan-Kootenay Boundary; and Bruce Howard, Okanagan.

The meeting will be held in the city council chambers at 8 p.m.

Also attending will be representatives of city councils and chambers of commerce from Kelowna, Vernon and Penticton.

The Okanagan Water Resources Committee was formed to bring about better understanding between the north and south Okanagan on the proposed Okanagan Shuswap canal project and on water quality control generally.

Westbank Man Fined $250 Following 120 MPH Chase

John Quigley, a 21-year-old Westbank driver who pleaded guilty Monday to being criminally negligent in operating a motor vehicle, was fined $250, or in default four months in jail.

Quigley was arrested last Saturday after RCMP clocked the car he was driving at speeds up to 120 miles per hour along Glenmore Street and Black Mountain Road.

His licence was suspended for two years and placed on probation for the same period.

In passing sentence, Magistrate D. M. White said, "It does not make any sense why you threw caution to the wind and drove like a maniac."

An Edmonton youth, 21-year-old David Kennedy, was fined $200 plus costs or 13 months in jail after pleading guilty Wednesday to theft of gasoline. He was arrested early Wednesday in the company of a juvenile—whose trial has been settled in juvenile court—and charged with stealing gasoline from two locations in Kelowna.

A chase on foot between two RCMP officers and two Kelowna youths ended in magistrate's court this morning with charges of loitering, assaulting a police officer and wilful destruction of property. Jointly charged with loitering on public property were Peter McGrath, 19, and Steward Fuson, 18, both arrested Wednesday in the vicinity of the Regatta City Motel.

The two were spotted by RCMP officers after an anonymous phone call complained of prowlers in the neighborhood. "We had left a dance and had the A and W as our objective," McGrath told the court, acting in his own defence. "We were both completely intoxicated and didn't know what we were doing."

Magistrate White found both guilty, but suspended sentence for one week so a probation report can be produced.

Fuson was also found guilty of assaulting a police officer in the performance of his duty. RCMP Const. Howard Johnson said he gave chase to the youth who kicked him, struggled, shouted obscenities and threatened his life.

Fuson's only defence was that he was intoxicated and was trying to avoid arrest for drinking under age. "You could run and put up a struggle," he was told by the magistrate. "I can't accept that as a defence."

The sentence was put over for a week, and a further charge of damaging police property was left for decision until this afternoon.

KELOWNA'S OLDEST

Courier Into 65th Year

Probably not many people noticed the number on the front page of the Courier Thursday—No. 1, Vol. 65—but behind those numbers lies the story of this newspaper.

The issue began the 65th year as a Kelowna newspaper. On July 28, 1904, R. H. Spedding of Manitou, Man., put out the first issue called the Kelowna Clarion "a small but newsy weekly."

The first Clarion was printed by hand. The type was set by hand and the press was operated by hand. In November a gasoline engine was installed to run the press and in June, 1905, a cylinder press arrived.

CHANGE NAME

In October, 1905, Mr. Spedding sold the business to George C. Rose. One of the first things the new owner did was change the name from Clarion to the "Kelowna Courier and Okanagan Orchardist."

The Courier part was from the Aberdeen Courier in Scotland where his father had been a courier, and the last half of the name was in recognition of the already developing fruit industry here.

The first building was on Bernard Avenue, but in December, 1909, the Courier moved to the new concrete structure at the corner of Lawrence Avenue and Water Street.

Mr. Rose purchased a typesetting machine to eliminate hand setting and in October, 1907, the paper went from $1 to $1.50 a year.

FIRST PICTURES

In 1909 the newspaper carried its first picture and the first local picture was Jan. 23, 1913.

In 1914 the first typesetting machine was thrown out and a linotype machine purchased and in 1924 a second linotype was added, eliminating all hand set except for ads.

Seven years later, the Courier building was enlarged and the circulation was recorded as 1,150 per week. The firm actually moved from the original building into the new section. In 1928 a second story was added.

Then the hungry thirties arrived and in 1935 the business was formed into a company, the Kelowna Courier Ltd. and Mr. Rose sold the control to the Penticton Herald and the Vernon News. Mr. Rose and R. Fraser retained a minority interest.

NEW PARTNER

In February, 1936, R. P. MacLean, who, with his brother had been operating the Pictou, Ont. Times which had been in the MacLean family for almost a century, arrived in Kelowna.

"to look the place and paper over."

He purchased an interest and succeeded Mr. Rose as publisher and editor. In 1941, he and Mr. Fraser purchased the balance of the stock, making the paper wholly Kelowna-owned.

In 1939 the Okanagan Orchardist part of the paper's name was dropped and the same year a faster press was purchased and the paper, which started out with five columns a page, then rose to seven, finally reached the eight column width.

By 1946, the Courier started publishing twice a week. The circulation in 1955 was 4,148.

In 1956 the paper joined the Thomson group and the next year moved to the present building at Doyle Avenue and Ellis Street. Another milestone was recorded in 1957, the newspaper "went daily."

The steady growth is evident in the circulation figures of recent years—Sept. 30, 1965, the circulation was 5,843; a year later, 6,298 and on Sept. 30, 1967, it was 6,910. July, 1968, circulation was 7,775.

Rather unique in the newspaper business is the few publishers the Courier has had—three in 64 years and only two in 63 years.

KELOWNA SKIER FINISHES FIRST

How about a bit of water skiing? Would you believe from Penticton to Vernon and back to Penticton in four hours?

Helmut Brandtetter was the only Kelowna skier to finish the six-man marathon ski trip to promote the Penticton Peach Festival. The veteran Kelowna skier finished first, ahead of two skiers from Penticton, one from Naramata and one from Vancouver. Reini Miller pulled Brandtetter along the 16-mile route, leaving Penticton at 7 a.m. and arriving back there at 11 a.m. Two stops were made for gas, with the skier dropped in the water, since he wasn't allowed to touch land until the trip was finished. Miller said his man finished five minutes ahead of the second place skier.

"But the margin of victory could have been greater, we played with them on the way back."

A Middle Road Needed In Regatta Pass Debate

The Regatta committee in its wisdom has decided that no—repeat no—passes will be issued this year. The ban is complete, period.

While appreciating the committee's motive behind the drastic action, we question the wisdom of the timing and of the complete ban.

The motive behind the move is said to be that the Regatta needs more revenue. No one questions that, but, we understand, the controversial pass ban could only mean something between $80 and $100 additional revenue. That the committee is endeavoring to run a tight budget we appreciate, but there have been many instances when sums considerably more than this have been spent with not an iota of the value.

The committee, we think, was quite wrong in imposing the new regulation at this time. It comes a couple of weeks before the event and most of the invited guests have indicated their acceptance of the invitation. The majority of these people either have been or could be of assistance to Kelowna in some sphere of activity. The amount involved is small and, actually, is not a cost at all; it just does not produce a bit of revenue. Yet Kelowna—hitherto noted for its hospitality—has invited these people, obtained their acceptance, and now says "pay your own way."

Whether the policy is justified or not is immaterial at this time. What is important is that it was adopted two weeks before the Regatta when it should have been adopted six months ago and publicized so everyone, including the invited guests, would be aware of the new rule.

Even so, that is no excuse for including the lieutenant-governor and the premier in the banned category. To do so is an insult to both men personally, to the provincial government and certainly to the Queen whom the lieutenant-governor represents. The amount of money involved is small and is immaterial, but there is a principle involved as far as these men holding the highest posts in this province are concerned. And the same may be said about the mayor of the honor city.

So strongly does at least one firm feel it has offered to purchase the necessary tickets for admission and parking and chauffeur for both the lieutenant-governor and the premier. Its motive for doing this is an attempt to eliminate the danger of Kelowna being made the laughing stock of the country for its niggardliness. The story is made to order for some smart newspaper reporter who doesn't love Kelowna very much. What he could do with it!

Those who do not know are inclined to think that the VIPs are a bunch of freeloaders. Such is not the case. The VIP list is scanned carefully and in every case the invitation goes to a person who has been or could be of assistance to Kelowna in some area. Will anyone dispute that Kelowna did not benefit from the visit of George Hees? Or of Joe Green? And a score of others could be named. The paltry amount spent on the VIPs over the years has paid extremely rich dividends. Kelowna with justification has won a name for hospitality. Now the Regatta committee is about to seriously tarnish that image.

The committee was quite probably sincere in making its decision, but did it think it quite through? We think not. Surely there must be a middle way for handling the situation without callously breaking a long tradition of friendship and hospitality. Rather than helping the Regatta—to the tune of a hundred dollars or so—the net result could be detrimental to the Regatta and to the city itself.

We repeat: the committee's motives were admirable, but, in our opinion it just did not consider all the ramifications. We trust further consideration will point a middle and better solution.

Junked Cars

It seems odd that we can export iron ore but that scrap iron in the form of junked cars accumulates around the countryside apparently with no ready market. One difficulty is that to render automobiles economically into scrap metal for shipment it is necessary to burn them out, and authorities everywhere are against the air pollution that this involves.

Facing this problem, municipal representatives of Vancouver Island may be excessively hopeful in asking that the provincial motor vehicles branch undertake, in co-operation with the regional districts and municipalities, the disposal of registered vehicles which have reached the end of their usefulness. The idea is that a disposal fee would be charged at the time of the original registration of a vehicle to pay for this operation. However, there is no suggestion of how the motor vehicles branch should go about it even if the provincial government were to accept this shared responsibility.

But it is worth noting that a law is already available to prevent the accumulations of junked cars from being the eyesore they are along the main roads of the province. By an act passed at this year's session of the legislature, the municipal affairs minister has the power to order the cleaning up of unsightly litter of junk on property within 500 feet of the centre line of a designated highway, giving offenders 30 days to comply, with the alternative of paying to have the work done. Where highways run through municipalities, the same power is given to the local authorities, and of course they also have the power under the Municipal Act to control junkyards or junk accumulations on private property.

Stricter enforcement both by the province and the municipalities is possibly the best way of approaching the situation. But as some other parts of the world have found, this is not the whole answer; it increases the incidence of cars being abandoned by the roadside with identifying marks removed.

Mule Deer Face Extinction In Great Sand Hills Region

REGINA (CP) — Mule deer are in a losing competition for food with cattle in the Great Sand Hills region, about 230 miles southwest of here, and wildlife officials say the deer face extinction unless there is a limited season for hunting them.

The deer, known scientifically as Odocoileus hemionus and popularly as "jumpers"—they tend to jump when startled—live mainly on twigs and leaves, a taste they share with cattle, although the competition is not direct.

The wildlife branch of Saskatchewan's natural resources department, in a recent pilot study, found the cattle eat a large portion of the browse between June and August, when the deer have been feeding mostly on rose plants and weeds, neither of which provide winter food for them.

The result is that the cattle, whose diet is supplemented by hay and grain in the winter, get the most nutritious food that nature provides for browsing.

The study says that unless there is a limited season on the mule deer—so called because their ears are larger than those of the better-known white-tail deer—a severe winter will probably result in a mass die-off, from which the deer population and the habitat may never recover.

A survey based on aerial photographs indicates that under the best conditions, a 440-square mile area of the Great Sand Hills region will support about 2,000 mule deer. Last fall the population was estimated conservatively at 2,065.

Despite a harvest estimated at 1,100 mule deer in 1964, the population showed a reproductive rate in 1965 of only about .8 fawns to one doe—roughly half its potential—and the animals collected were generally thin and infested with ticks.

Two prime-age does were found to be barren. Spotted fawns are born in late June or early July and are usually twins.

POOR DIET A FACTOR

The deer population began to increase in 1966 and 1967, but not at the rate of 1.5 fawns to one doe that would be expected if hunting were the only limiting factor. The animals were limited in their reproductive rate because of poor diet.

Undergrowth in many areas had been almost wiped out, because of its use as shelter by both cattle and deer, and there was little sign of regeneration. The mild winter of 1967-68 allowed even heavier use of the browse by both cattle and deer.

"Though the ranchers of the area are concerned about the mule deer," the wildlife branch's preliminary report says, "they are basically businessmen and, as such, are not likely to reduce the number of cattle on their range or to change existing range practices if it costs them money."

"Since the range is deteriorating rapidly, the only way to slow this deterioration and to preserve the mule deer is to hunt it on a limited basis, maintaining the population at a level which will carry the species with the slowest deterioration of the range."

Doctors Hesitate With Sterilization

By DR. JOSEPH G. MOLNER

Dear Dr. Molner:
I am 23, have one daughter, and am expecting another child in six months.

My husband and I don't want any more children. I've asked my obstetrician to sterilize me and he refused. The Planned Parenthood Association said they could do nothing.

Everybody is hollering about the population explosion, but when a married woman who has two children wants to be sterilized it is as difficult as getting to the moon.—Mrs. W.D.

If you'd seen as many letters as I have, starting out, "I had my tubes tied several years ago, but now I am married again and we so much want another baby," you'd know why doctors don't regard sterilization as lightly as you do.

So talk to your obstetrician, or to Planned Parenthood, about some other form of contraception.

Dear Dr. Molner: Is psoriasis contagious? How does it start in the first place? Is there any cure or treatment for it?—M.A.G.

It is not contagious, but no one has yet been able to discover what causes it. And that's why it has been impossible to find a cure.

I do not mean that it is never cured. (And sometimes it goes away spontaneously, and again we don't know why.) Sometimes one treatment works and another won't. Sometimes no treatment succeeds.

My advice to most people with psoriasis, unless the case is extremely annoying and worth the expense of trying different treatments, is to have your doctor prescribe an ointment that will soften the skin and prevent itching and scaling, and then be satisfied with comfort. Instead of the itch and the appearance, psoriasis isn't a dangerous ailment.

Dear Dr. Molner: I am one of those persons who can't take aspirin so have been taking a quinine preparation. Now I notice that it has a new formula containing salicylamide, and have hesitated about taking it.

Where can I obtain an identification to wear to the effect that I cannot take aspirin?—Mrs. M.S.

Salicylamide is not the same as aspirin (acetylsalicylic acid) and usually can be tolerated when aspirin cannot. It is present in many pain pills and is worth trying.

You can obtain a warning symbol of one type or another from most jewelry counters and some drug stores. You can also obtain such symbols through a non-profit group, MedicAlert. The address is Turlock, Calif. 95380.

Dear Dr. Molner: Can plastic surgery correct the "moon-face" condition caused by extended use of cortisone?—W.S.

Plastic surgery won't help, but now that you are off the medication the puffiness should subside eventually.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

PROTEST

Dear Sir,
As a protest grower I must register a protest to Ald. Hilbert Roth's remarks in Tuesday's Courier regarding B.C. Tree Fruit's non-participation in the Regatta parade.

I am completely in accord with Mr. Moore's stated reasons for not taking a larger part in the parade and if, as Ald. Roth says, he will buy Australian canned fruit in protest then perhaps we as fruit growers should stop shopping in Kelowna.

"WESTSIDE GROWER"

STAGNATE

Dear Sir,
Four long years ago, the then members of the Kelowna Town Council promised the home owners resident in the Five Bridges area that if they voted for the district to be incorporated in the town of Kelowna they would receive in a reasonable period, the same services as the rest of the city.

At that time the Council led by Mayor Parkinson and Councillor T. Angus was loud in blasting the area as polluted with sewage, and a danger to the whole community.

So Five Bridges voted to be part of the city as they were promised sewers, and water mains. They have the water but not the sewers.

It is not time that the present council keep faith with Five Bridges. The excuse for no sewers is that the council has not the money. How about spending a million on the airport?

We see money squandered in every direction, from flowers in boxes on the main street to hand outs to motor boat racing. Yet the essentials such as the providing of sewers are neglected.

The council and the people of Kelowna can thank their lucky stars that the residents of Five Bridges take pride in their homes, many have spent large sums to install and maintain sewage disposal. The ghettos of New York and other American cities are supplied with modern sewage systems.

How come? With all the cries of progressiveness, high rise apartments, etc., nothing has been done about Five Bridges.

CIVIC MINDED

TV SHOWS

Dear Sir,
I read the editorial Ban Violence on T.V. Isn't it reassuring to know that there are still good people around who are willing to shoulder the burden of deciding what is safe for your children to watch.

After all you are incapable of deciding which television shows are unsuitable for young children. Even if you were intelligent enough to see that a show like The Avengers is not intended for a seven year-old you would certainly be too helpless to ask the little kids to do something else while you watch it.

Fortunately there are men like Senator Dodd, widely known for his honesty and strength of character, to tell you which shows the kiddies can't watch, and then ban them from TV altogether just to make sure you follow orders.

We must support these fine men on our side of the border even more strongly for Canada is lagging behind in the great struggle to give more power to those who know best. Brothers, we must close the censorship gap.

Yours truly,
JIM ROTH

NEWS ANALYSIS

Prague, Moscow In Square Off

By PHILIP DEANE,
Foreign Affairs Analyst

Paradoxically, the increasingly better relations between the U.S. and the Soviet Union complicate the problem of Czech moves towards liberalism and away from Communism. It would have sounded incredible, had one said it 10 years ago, that the hardliners in the Kremlin are claiming that Czech liberalism should be curbed for the sake of better relations with the U.S.

These hardliners have fought unsuccessfully against reconciliation with the U.S. They are, for Russia, the equivalent of America's ultra-conservatives. Just as the American hardliners kneel beside their beds at night, not to pray, but to look for Communists lurking underneath, so do the Russian hardliners suspect the presence of CIA agents in every shadow.

They have insisted all along that any conciliatory move by America carried with it the danger of trickery. They wanted to rely on stronger armaments and continuing revolution. But they have lost their fight within the Kremlin because of the hydrogen bomb and American productivity; the bomb makes reliance on military strength ultimately absurd because military threats must be hollow when they can only be carried out at the cost of suicide; other forms of competition, preaching revolution, for instance, collided head on with the undeniable attraction for everyone of the American economic way; so successful is the American economy that everyone wants to emulate it. Communist countries are adapting American economic techniques. Communist countries do not want to deny themselves the profits from trade with the world's richest economy.

It has been hard for the hardliners in Moscow to crush their line when it has meant a choice between suicide or austerity. Reluctantly, they have gone along with the trend towards agreement with Washington. And it is this trend they are invoking in their bid to curb Czech liberalism.

According to the hardliners, the most delicate aspect of an accommodation with the U.S. pertains to a European settlement. No accommodation will work if the two superpowers cannot assure one another that they can disengage from Europe with no danger. This will mean dismantling NATO and the Warsaw Pact, disarming Germany, installing effective arms control inspection in Europe.

This will have to be accomplished by reciprocal and equal concessions; say the Moscow hardliners; so Russia must have things to bargain away. What will she have to bargain away if the satellites, catching the Czech infection, desert the communist camp? Why should not the West simply encourage liberalization among the satellites instead of dealing directly with Russia? To let Czechoslovakia get away with her heresy, say the Moscow hardliners, is to throw away Russian trump cards. This is a serious charge by the hardliners against the moderates who do not relish being represented as "the men who lost Europe." That could cost them power in the Kremlin, as "losing China" cost the Democrats power in Washington.

CANADA'S STORY

Labor Leader's Death Caused General Strike

By BOB BOWMAN

This is the anniversary of the first general strike in Canada. Despite the critical position of the Allies in the First World War it took place on Aug. 2, 1918 as a protest against the killing by police of "Ginger" Goodwin, a radical labor leader, at Comox, B.C. The strike lasted only one day.

There was great labor unrest in Canada as the end of First World War drew near, and it was bitterly resented by returned soldiers, most of whom had been wounded. In Vancouver a group of veterans attacked the meeting hall of the Longshoremen's Association to retaliate for the general strike.

Radicals today are often labelled as "Communists" by people who hold opposing views. In 1918 they were usually called Bolsheviks and cartooned as talking in heavy Russian accents, wearing long black beards and dark glasses. They were supposed to be the agents of the Russian revolutionaries, preaching the doctrine of "workers of the world, unite!"

There were 169 strikes across Canada in 1918 although labor unions then were very weak compared to today. Gradually the discontent led to the most serious strike of all, the Winnipeg general strike in 1919 that paralysed the city for a month and caused death through rioting.

Yet when the leaders of the Winnipeg strike were rounded up in an early morning raid, it was discovered that most of them were highly-respectable Canadian citizens. Two of them, J. S. Woodsworth and William Ivimey, were church ministers. Two others, John Queen and A. A. Heaps, were Winnipeg aldermen.

Fred Dixon was an elected member of the Manitoba legislature, while others included R. H. Russell, R. J. Johns, George Armstrong, R. E. Bray, and William Pritchard, all of whom were responsible labor leaders. There were five so-called Bolsheviks in the roundup, but there was no evidence against them and they had to be released.

MR. AND MRS. DAVID BRYAN MILLER

Home Of Bride's Parents Scene Of Pretty Afternoon Wedding

A charming informal wedding took place at the Art Centre, home of the bride's parents, when Kathleen Ann, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Zelko Kujundzic, became the bride of David Bryan Miller, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Miller of North Burnaby, on July 20, at 4 p.m.

Rev. Robert Scates officiated at the double-ring ceremony at which the couple exchanged gold wedding rings made by the father of the bride and guitar music was provided by Peter Alphonse, a native Cariboo Indian.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was lovely in an afternoon suit of silver striped jersey silk, made by her mother and complemented with a corsage of white lilies. For something old she wore a 12th century Aztec jade necklace.

The matron of honor was Mrs. Carol McRitchie of Vancouver, who wore a silver and white sheath dress with a corsage of pink roses and white carnations, and small Tans Kujundzic, youngest sister of the bride, who acted as flower girl, was pretty in a short blue and white dress and carried a bouquet of shasta daisies.

ANN LANDERS

Pay Bill Of Course

2 A.M. Call No Break

Dear Ann Landers: Several days ago I awakened at about 2 a.m. with a headache. I went to the bathroom to get an aspirin and fell. I was sure I had broken my shoulder. My husband telephoned his young cousin who has just started to practice medicine. He came right over and said he didn't think it was a fracture but advised me to get X-rays in the morning. He gave me a sleeping pill.

I had the X-rays taken and there was no fracture. This morning I received a bill for the X-rays ($35.00) and a bill from my husband's cousin for $15. I don't mind the bill for the X-rays but I do feel this young doctor has a nerve charging me $15 for a sleeping pill. Had we known he was going to charge we would have called our regular family doctor. We just wanted to give the lad a break and help him get some practical experience. Were we wrong?—TENNESSEE

Dear Tenn: Just what kind of a break is it for a doctor (young or old) to make a house call at 2 a.m. for nix? Doctors get plenty of practical experience taking care of fathers, mothers, sisters, brothers, nieces, nephews and grandparents for free—not to mention charity cases and clinic patients! Internship also offers a world of free experience, particularly the odd-hour variety.

Pay the bill and do your cousin a favor by not giving him any more breaks in the middle of the night.

Dear Ann Landers: After publishing the letter signed "Pilloried," I'll bet you are the pin-up girl of every divorced man in the United States. My own soon-to-be-shed spouse mailed that column to me and attached a note which read: "See, just like us."

Undoubtedly some men do get picked by conniving wives but a few of us deserve whatever we can get from the low-life skunks.

Pre-Regatta Fashion Lunch Has A Professional Eclat

The second and last Pre-Regatta Fashion Luncheon which took place at the Kelowna Aquatic on Wednesday was a tremendous success with the hostesses Mrs. H. J. Van Ackeren, Mrs. Roy Wignall and Miss Helen Matsie greeting more than 250 Kelownians and their friends.

After the guests had served themselves at the delicious buffet luncheon which featured a baron of beef, scalloped potatoes and many colorful salads, Miss Audrey Gibbons, the Miss Congeniality of two years ago, welcomed the guests and introduced the soloist Donald Ritchie and the organist, who accompanied him and later played the background music for the fashion show. Dale Wentworth, Mr. Ritchie then sang several numbers in his beautiful baritone voice which were greatly appreciated by his audience.

Following the entertainment the Fashion Show started with all eight candidates and two more mature models, Mrs. Robert Knox and Mrs. Pat Currell, putting on a showing of Eve's summer and early fall styles that was almost professional, and was certainly most glamorous.

The showing opened with Diane Wilson and Kathy Goode appearing together in a leather three-piece scene stealer. Kathy wore the leather jumper and skirt with a long sleeved beige blouse and Diane wore the leather pants of the ensemble, topped with the duplicate of Kathy's blouse and a sporty kerchief in tones of brown.

Delectable bathing suits came next, and outstanding was a bare-for-action bikini model from Australia superbly modeled by Liz Knox. The form fitting bra and snappy little bikini pants were in a stretchy material in hot pink, orange and white. Among the sports models Val Paul looked very attractive in a yellow silk knit jumper suit, topped with a yellow, orange, green, and pink tunic with ruffle trim, and three quarter length sleeves.

Little Andria Fuller made a perfect "China Doll" in a tiered white organdy party dress accented with tiny pink bows in her hair. Marina Maundell was very smart in a brown cardigan dress with an off white pleated skirt and a swinging tie at the neckline, the cardigan opened casually to show off her flapper type dress.

For evening, Colleen Gordon was most attractive in one of the new mid-length dresses of lime green dotted voile, trimmed with Kelly green velvet, and later on she modelled a very smart black velvet Mini dress with a high empire waistline which featured one brilliant rhinestone buckle as ornament.

Sue Barclay was enchanting in a China Doll hostess gown designed by Elizabeth Allen with a quilted skirt of pale blue paisley and a black velvet El-cama top, fashioned with the new low neckline at back, and most becoming and naughty cut outs in front.

Among the many lovely models shown for the more mature woman by Mrs. Currell was the elegant travel wise Chavacate model of fine silk knit from the Louis Feraud collection which packs like a handkerchief and unpacks ready to wear. This lovely model featured a shocking pink front, a floating green back, and a high neck line marked with a green tie.

Mrs. Knox, whose pretty white hair set off all the outfits she wore, was particularly smart in a coat dress ensemble by Carriage Trade in a wild rose shade styled with an A-line skimmer coat and worn over a beautifully proportioned Venetian Knit dress.

At the conclusion of the Fashion Show Miss Audrey Gibbons introduced Mrs. Currell and Mrs. Knox and the eight contestants each introduced themselves and formed into a line to receive the generous applause and complete the very successful second pre-Regatta Fashion Luncheon.

Warmer Days Hurt Fishing

By JIM TREADGOLD

THE EXTREME HOT weather is having a slowing effect on the fishing in the area, however, fishing success has been above average for this time of season. Most of the lakes are slow during the heat of the day, with short periods when the fish are taking, but evening fishing is quite good on many lakes, when the fish rise to the surface, feeding on the insect life that has hatched and accumulated during the day.

There are still many anglers on Okanagan lake every day, fishing primarily for Kokanee which are being taken in numbers. A few fair sized trout have been taken of late, by the Kokanee trolls. Mrs. Doyle of 457 Poplar Point Drive caught a four pound trout off the dock in front of her house using spinning gear with a float and worms. This sized fish would give a good account of itself on such light tackle.

Beaver Lake is slow during the day, with the spinner and worm taking some fish. The evening rises are getting better and the experienced fly fishermen are doing quite well right up to dark.

It is the same on the Dee Chain, but some of the outlying lakes are producing good fishing on the fly.

Some good reports have been received from Oyama Lake fishing in the evenings, using the Grey Sedge, Grizzly King, and Deer Hair nymph flies. The road into Oyama is better, but still not a good road for cars.

Had a good report on Pinaus Lake at Falkland on Tuesday, and Jimmie Lake at Westwood has been keeping quite steady. Dr. Ted Hackie and Eric Batson took limit catches there last weekend as did Alan Perley and John Ritchie. Alan took one of four pounds, using the Doc Spratley fly on sinking fly line. The Black Carey and Black Lash flies are also good on this lake. Also reported was that John Ritchie did a good job of auctioneering off the refreshment supplies that day, and even the fish were bidding or biting as they had a catch of nice fish.

A REPORT FROM the Headwaters Camp back of Peachland states that fishing has been good in No. One Lake, the trout not being large, but in quantity. The resort is under new management this season being owned and operated by John and Irene Funk. There are six lakes in the immediate area with some having fair sized fish.

They plan on keeping the camp open during the fall for hunters, and this will be welcomed as it is a good deer area until the snow gets deep. Moose are also getting more plentiful in that area.

Dr. Jim Tisdale and party were in to Ochie Lake in the Greyhounds last weekend and I have heard conflicting reports on the fishing success. Jim reported that there were only six fish left in Ochie Lake, and another informant reported that they took some nice fish. I am still at a loss to know which fish story to believe.

I have heard several reports on Mission Lake also in the Greyhounds, that there are some good sized fish in this lake. This has never been verified to my satisfaction and I would like to hear more on this lake. It is past Greyhounds dam and is a walk in lake.

Young 9-year-old Patrick Marshall of Okanagan Blvd. will remember last Monday for a long time. Pat was fishing Mill Creek just behind Arena Motors, using a short willow pole, five feet of line and a hook and worm. A Kamloops trout of about a pound and three quarters found himself on the bank in one second flat when he tasted that worm. Pat was so excited about this nice trout, and it was a nice fish, that he immediately ran all the way home to show his prize catch to his mother. Pat has been fishing for a couple of years along the creeks in this area and has learned how to take these wary creek fish, patience and quietness, mixed with a little know-how. There is no better recreation for a boy.

HAVE HAD A number of good reports from Bear Lake, mostly during the evening period.

Browne Lake reports are slower, as were reports from Deer and Munro Lakes back of Summerland. Pennask Lake is still producing a lot of fish, with a lot of anglers on this lake every day.

Jackpine Lake reports are fair to good with some nice sized fish being taken on the fly, flatfish, and splinner and worm. A few small Jeeps are getting in but most are walking the last stretch.

There have been a few good sized trout taken at Shuswap Lake lately, mostly on the deep troll with the Mac Squid plug or the gang troll and worms.

The Spring Salmon will be at Shuswap Falls soon now. In fact the first run could be there now. This river from Enderby to Shuswap Falls will be heavily fished for the next six weeks, for these big fish. There was a big run of Spring in this river last year, but the best part of the season was cut off by the Forest Closure. It is not expected that a Closure will be necessary this year.

There has been concern of late on muddy, black water in Trepanier Creek believed caused by mining activities. This matter is of concern to persons who live on the creek and use its water for domestic purposes, and also to fishermen who fish this creek. It is hoped that the mine does not will not pollute and spoil this creek. History has shown that industry can play havoc on sport fish especially trout which are very susceptible to any type of pollution.

The new Sport Fishing Regulations for 1968 are out at last, four months late. There are a number of changes in the regulations and I have been informed that as the Regulations are so late in being distributed that the changes will not be enforced this season, the balance of the season time being used to educate anglers to the changes.

Some of the changes are — There is a limit on Kokanee and whitefish of 25 per day with a possession limit of 75. Bass limit is 10 daily. The Province has been broken into sections. The Okanagan Region is known as Section No. 4 and comprises Management areas No. 5-6-7-8.

LEAD SERIES 2-0 IN GAMES

Willows Stop Rutland

The Willow Inn Willows are within one game of removing the Rutland Rovers from further playoff action in the Kelowna and District Senior B Softball League. The Willows got strong pitching for the second game in a row Thursday, rallied for a run in the eighth inning and went on to defeat the pennant-winning Rovers 2-1 at King's Stadium. The win gives the Willows a 2-0 lead in the best-of-five series. They have a chance to end it all Sunday when they meet the Rovers in Rutland. Wally Sehn was the winning pitcher, going the full eight innings.

Sehn limited the Rovers to three hits and escaped from several jams throughout the game. In the fifth inning, Sehn gave up a triple to lead-off batter Jack Yamaoka, then stopped him from scoring by retiring the next three men in a row.

He got out of jam in the eighth inning after Don Schneider and Arnie Rath had singled with two out.

The losing pitcher was Rath who came on in relief of starter Ken Hehn in the seventh inning.

The Willows scored their first run in the second inning after Sehn tripled to open the inning. Doug Gordon hit a sacrifice fly to right field to drive him home.

Eugene Knorr singled, advanced on a wild pitch and scampered home on Ron Pyle's single.

Pitching has played a prominent role in both series, with only nine runs scored in three games. The most runs scored by any one team was three, the amount registered by the Willows in their shutout victory over the Rovers Tuesday.

In the other series, the Royal Anne Royals lead the Kelowna Carlings 1-0 in games on the strength of a 2-1 victory in the first game Wednesday. The game is, however, under protest.

Two of the three games to date have gone into extra innings.

Roughies Humiliate Hamilton In Season's Opening Game

OTTAWA (CP) — Ottawa Rough Riders scored seven touchdowns Thursday night to smash the 1967 Grey Cup champion Hamilton Tiger-Cats 53-13 in the first game of the Eastern Football Conference season for both teams.

Flanker Whit Tucker caught three Rider touchdown passes ouettes 27-10 without apparently working up a good sweat.

The game tonight will be shown nationally in color by CTV, starting at 8 p.m. EDT.

Scott was helped off the field in the third quarter and Ottawa trainer Fred Peterson said the fullback suffered "stretched ligaments in the right leg, but it does not appear to be serious."

and said later it's the first time he remembers catching three such passes in the same game.

Vic Washington, an Ottawa rookie from the University of Wyoming, got two touchdowns and crossed the goal line after a thrilling 104-yard runback of a Hamilton kickoff.

Defensive halfback Joe Poirer romped 45 yards for a Rider touchdown after intercepting a pass by Joe Zuger. Bo Scott got Ottawa's other goal on a three-yard run.

Both Ticat touchdowns in the game before 23,739 fans were scored by Dave Fleming. He got his first off an 82-yard pass-and-run play with Zuger and the second on a four-yard run. Tommy Joe Coffey got one of two convert attempts.

Don Sutherland managed to convert five of Ottawa's seven touchdowns and added 43- and 38-yard field goals to complete Ottawa's scoring.

ARGOS GO TONIGHT

The game set the stage for Toronto's untied Argonauts, who open their season at home tonight against Edmonton Eskimos.

Marichal Wins 20th Game Against Drysdale, Dodgers

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Juan Marichal, who became the National League's first 20-game winner with a three-hitter as San Francisco's Giants blanked Los Angeles Dodgers 2-0 Thursday night, believes in finishing what he starts.

The Dominican Dandy bested Dodger ace Don Drysdale for his 16th consecutive complete game and fifth straight victory. Marichal has gone the distance in 96 of his last 97 victories.

In other league action, Atlanta Braves topped New York Mets 4-2, Chicago Cubs tripped Houston Astros 4-1, St. Louis Cardinals nipped Philadelphia Phillies 2-1 in a game ended by rain after seven innings, and Pittsburgh Pirates rapped Cincinnati Reds 6-1.

It was the Giant ace's seventh straight victory in head-to-head showdowns with Drysdale.

Marichal, 20-4, is six days ahead of the pace set by Dizzy Dean who won 30 games in 1934 — the last pitcher to do it. Dean didn't notch No. 20 until Aug. 7. Detroit's Denny McLain, 21-3, is the only other 20-game winner in the majors at the moment.

Jim Davenport singled San Francisco's first run across in the fourth and hot-hitting Dick Dietz cracked a homer in the sixth. It was Dietz' sixth hit in eight at bats.

CARDS PAD LEAD

The rampaging Cardinals extended their first-place lead to 15 games with Steve Carlton's seven-inning two-hitter.

It was the fourth straight complete game victory for the St. Louis pitching staff. Roger Maris stroked a single and double and had a hand in both Cardinals runs.

Johnny Callison homered for the Phillies.

From Triple Play To Homer For Washington's Shortstop

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Ron Hansen is at his best with men on base—no matter whose men.

Only three days ago, the lanky shortstop was in the field with two runners on base, and turned a line drive into only the eighth unassisted triple play in major league history.

Then, with three of his teammates on base Thursday night, he came to bat and proved the point, belting a grand slam home run that sparked Washington Senators in a 9-3 rout over Detroit Tigers.

The Tigers were not around for the triple play, and the homer certainly didn't excite them as they had a game sliced off their American League lead as Baltimore Orioles pulled within six games by beating third-place Cleveland Indians 5-1 as Dave McNally outdueled Luis Tiant.

Stan Bahnsen hurled a three-hitter and New York Yankees edged Boston Red Sox 1-0 in the other night game, and Minnesota Twins defeated Chicago White Sox 4-1 in an afternoon contest.

Hansen, a 30-year-old veteran in his ninth major league season, has always been a good hitter with men on base for a guy who has never hit more than .261 in the majors.

He has driven in between 51 and 86 runs in each of the five seasons he has played regularly.

His homer in the fourth inning against the Tigers was his eighth of the season and 97th of his career, but his first slam. It put the Senators safely ahead 6-1 after Mike Epstein belted his eighth with a man on in the first inning off Pat Dobson, 3-3. Bernie Allen later clouted a two-run shot, his fourth.

Mounties Beat Portland

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The Mounties rode to an easy 7-4 victory over Portland Beavers Thursday night in Vancouver, thanks to a pair of Beaver errors and a wild pitching streak by Portland starter Steve Bailey that allowed the Mounties seven runs in the first inning.

The victory broke a four-game losing streak for the Mounties and was the first win of the season for reliever Marcel Lachemann.

Elsewhere, the Indians trimmed Denver Bears, 3-1 in Indianapolis, Tacoma beat the Indians 9-4 in Spokane, Hawaii clobbered the Angels 11-3 in Seattle, the Oilers edged Phoenix 6-5 in Tulsa and San Diego dumped the Bees 4-1 in Oklahoma City.

The Cubs exploded for eight runs in the eighth inning for a spectacular victory over the Indians.

Indianapolis Indians bunched single runs in the middle innings to beat the Bears. San Diego came from behind with a three-run homer in the eighth by John Lewis.

John Wayne In Crossfire After Green Berets Show

WASHINGTON (CP)—John Wayne, hero of just about every war Hollywood filmmakers ever became involved in and fresh from his latest battle, has run into brutal crossfire from an unexpected quarter—the home front.

Just when it seemed no one had a good word for Wayne and his Vietnam war film The Green Berets, Senator Strom Thurmond, like the United States Cavalry in past Wayne epics, came riding to the rescue in the nick of time.

Taking his defence of Wayne to the floor of the Senate, the South Carolina Republican said he was convinced—although he hadn't yet seen the recently-released movie—that it "must be one of the finest and most admirable movies of our generation."

What convinced him was the first paragraph of the New York Times review, which he placed in the Congressional Record:

"The Green Berets is a film so unspeakable, so stupid, so rotten and false in every detail that it passes through being fun, through being funny, through being camp, through everything and becomes an invitation to grieve, not for our soldiers or for Vietnam . . . but for what has happened to the fantasy-making apparatus in this country. Simplicity of the right, simplicity of the left, but this one is beyond the possible. It is vile and insane. On top of that, it is dull."

KNOCKS MOVIE

Times critic Renata Adler was not alone in her scathing assessment of the story of a U.S. Special Forces unit slaying every Viet Cong guerrilla in sight while putting American war critics in their place.

William Rice of the Washington Post found it "a dreadful movie," adding that the responsibility "for the failure of the movie rests squarely with Wayne" who starred in it, co-directed it and whose own firm produced it.

Amid all this flak, Wayne, a noted Republican, was moved to charge that the "liberal press" slammed his pride and joy because of its hawkish bent. And his son Michael, who handled production, told interviewers that "reviews read as though written before critics had seen the picture."

Taking up the challenge, Milton Berliner of the Washington Daily News wrote: "Having seen it, I can assure him that he has to be dead wrong."

Meanwhile, back on the Senate floor Thurmond elaborated on his theory as to the "standard of criticism current in the New York Times."

FINDS PLAY FRESH

For comparison he read a Times review of the Broadway show Hair, which critic Clive Barnes found new, fresh and likeable despite unprintable language and "a number of men and women . . . totally nude and full, as it were, face."

"So there you have the story," concluded Thurmond. "If the New York Times says that a film is unspeakable and so forth, it must be pretty good. And if the New York Times says a film about depravity is fresh and likeable, we know well enough to avoid it."

DRUNKS COST MONEY

Alcoholism costs South Africa about $14,000,000 annually, A. B. Straling, head of University of Pretoria's department of social medicine, said. He said three per cent of the industrial population are alcoholics.

He Was Made For Walking On

HONOLULU (AP)—"I'm the guy those boots were made for walking on," cracks Tommy Sands, and the night club audience shares his rueful humor.

Most of the nightly visitors to the Outrigger Hotel ballroom understand the significance of the remark. Singer Sands is the ex-husband of Nancy Sinatra, who achieved success of her own with the man-taunting These Boots Are Made for Walking—"and one of these days these boots are going to walk all over you."

During his new night club act, Sands refers to his marriage and to onetime associates Dean Martin and Sammy Davis but avoids mention of his former father-in-law, Frank Sinatra.

It's all done with a light touch, and the Walkiki audiences applaud Sands' patter and his professional way with a song.

Toronto Parade Planned Early

TORONTO (CP) — Toronto's Santa Claus parade, sponsored by a department store each year in mid-November, is a 12-month proposition.

Jim Carmichael, parade supervisor for 13 years, works the year round with eight other parade experts in a green-painted warehouse in suburban Toronto, building the huge floats for the annual event.

One of Mr. Carmichael's favorite floats is a 10-foot-high chipmunk with movable eyes, ears and mouth.

"Right now it's a chipmunk, but it can be turned into anything—a mink, weasel, a squirrel. I'd like to make it a skunk next year," he says.

Every year after the parade, the floats are shipped to Montreal for a similar parade, then returned to Toronto where Mr. Carmichael, 43, and his assistants start work almost immediately preparing new floats for next year.

"The figures are changed from year to year, but we try to use the forms again to cut down on time," Mr. Carmichael explains.

He and his assistants spend most of their time in that green warehouse, making elephants into hippos, biplanes into butterflies, flowerpots into merry-go-rounds.

"Most people don't notice it," says Mr. Carmichael, "but even the Santa float changes every year, except the reindeer and sleigh. Last year we had Eskimos and an aurora borealis on the sleds, and before that we've had trees and houses."

This year the sleigh features Christmas presents and seven-foot Teddy Bears.

African Queen Now Sparkles More Than In Humph's Time

SAN RAFAEL, Calif. (Reuters) — The African Queen now sparkles and shines from even more loving care than the late Humphrey Bogart lavished on the temperamental old steam launch which starred in the movie of the same name.

Its rusty wood-burning boiler and smokestack which frustrated a cursing Bogart have been polished to a level which eluded the Hollywood tough-guy in the 1952 award-winning movie classic.

Plucked out of the steamy waterways around Lake Victoria and the Nile River, the 56-year-old vessel is being shown in U.S. ports this summer to raise funds for research into cancer—the disease which killed Bogart.

Two cases of gin, the indomitable helmsman's favorite drink in the movie, are being stowed aboard the 30-foot launch to revive memories of the heated clashes between the alcohol-swilling captain and his prim missionary passenger played by Katherine Hepburn.

ARRIVES FROM KENYA

The boat arrived in San Francisco strapped to the deck of a freighter from Mombasa, Kenya.

The rickety launch, which carried freight and passengers for 40 years before it became a movie star, was brought here by restaurant owner Fred Reeve, a Bogart fan and cancer charity worker who visualized it as a dramatic part of his fund-raising campaign.

teered to repaint the craft and restore the boiler to its prime so that it could chug into Fisherman's Wharf in San Francisco for a week-long stay before a grand tour of southern and eastern United States ports.

Reeve said half the funds raised will go to anti-cancer groups in San Rafael. The remainder will be split equally between other American cancer organizations and cancer research work in Uganda.

Scenes from the movie, with a narration by director John Huston, will be shown at the appearances of the launch.

Bard's Birthplace Suffers From Clogged Arteries

STRATFORD-UPON-AVON, England (CP) — William Shakespeare's birthplace is in danger "of being choked by the motor vehicle," warns a new report on traffic in this ancient town.

Part of Stratford's problem dates from a time long before Shakespeare was born here in 1564.

The central-area street pattern "is basically a gridiron one, evolved in the late Middle Ages," says the report by the Warwickshire County planning department.

Today that pattern falls short of "the demands made on it by the motor vehicle."

Thousands flock to this Warwickshire centre every year from around the globe for productions of the bard's classic plays at the Royal Shakespeare Theatre as well as for visits to his grave.

STREETS TOO NARROW

Sharing the same county with Stratford are some major magnets for heavy road traffic, including the heavily industrialized cities of Birmingham and Coventry.

Dealing with such transient as well as local traffic, Stratford suffers from excessively narrow streets. The county planners complain of this, but they also insist on preservation of the town's historic sections.

Thus large-scale demolition, the salvation of planners in other communities, is ruled out here.

Yet some sites in Stratford are devoid of historic interest and could be cleared in any effort to improve the streets, the traffic experts add.

The report was designed to provide guidance for future development of the town centre. County and town officials mapping out a basis for future changes also will draw on the opinions of private organizations and individuals.

Being Star Of Star Trek Not All It Appears To Be

Reports—inaccurate, as it turned out—of the impending cancellation of NBC's science-fiction series, "Star Trek" earlier this year resulted in a record-breaking flood of viewer mail, even some demonstrations outside network headquarters. In the eye of the storm was Bill Shatner, the Montreal-born actor who has been learning that being a television star in a popular series isn't all it cracked up to be. He tells about it in the following story.

By BILL SHATNER

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—As a professional actor with 15 years experience I have enjoyed some success among the fans and my fellow actors, but never have I experienced such acclaim as my role in Star Trek has brought me.

The mere fact that I am an actor would indicate that I enjoy this, and naturally I do, but it's a funny thing the way the sudden public recognition changes how you are treated not only by the fans, but by your fellow actors, directors, producers and even your family.

For example, before I was in this series going to a movie was no big thing. I'd just get in my car, drive to the theatre and buy a ticket. Now if I stand in line to buy a ticket people ask for autographs, stare, poke each other and ask, "What's he doing standing in line." It really becomes kind of uncomfortable.

So as a result now I call the theatre and say I want to come and see the picture, but that I don't want to stand in the box-office line impeding the orderly sale of tickets. Usually they say just come right to the door and we'll collect your money there.

FAME HAS DRAWBACKS

Things changed after the first year of the series. Now nobody on the set comes up and says, "Hi, Bill. How are you?" I find that I have to walk up to them, and say hello first. It's all a little silly, but there is a definite change in the way people treat anyone who happens to be lucky enough to be in a hit series.

Even directors are inclined now to suggest rather than tell you how they want a scene played.

Producers seem to be affected in the same way.

I never had any trouble at airports with people wanting to rip my necktie or even jacket off prior to Star Trek. Waiters, bellboys and porters are another whole bag. I used to go out for dinner and tip a respectable 15 per cent. No more. If the attention they lavish on me now isn't repaid by at least 20 to 25 per cent, I get the distinct feeling they think I'm a young Jack Benny.

Still another, and more shocking change in attitude is within my own family. Not my immediate family, but with cousins, aunts and uncles with whom I grew up. Last year I was in Montreal for a large family gathering.

"I'm not Billy to them anymore. Some of them even asked me for autographs for their children. That is ridiculous. I'm the same kid that used to steal apples from the trees and let air out of tires and all the mischievous things all kids do as they grow up. I've known these people all my life and suddenly now there is a distance between us that was never there before.

Commercials
On The BBC?

LONDON (CP) — Statements made in Britain by Postmaster-General John Stonehouse have sparked new speculation about possible introduction of commercials on BBC radio.

The publicly-owned broadcasting corporation has never allowed advertising on its radio or television networks.

And many executives at the BBC are considered ready to resign rather than tolerate product plugs.

Lord Hill, chairman of the BBC's board of governors, is said to have given the service's director-general, Sir Hugh Greene, absolute assurance that advertising would never be countenanced on BBC radio.

This may have left Greene feeling easier about announcing his 1969 retirement as director-general.

But these statements made by Stonehouse in the Commons are widely construed as hints that commercials—which would be a lucrative source of extra BBC revenue—are being considered for possible introduction on the corporation's pop music network.

BOOST LICENCE FEES

Stonehouse made his remarks after announcing increases in the cost of licences Britons must have for use of television sets. The TV licences include authorization of radio sets.

From Jan. 1, 1969, the fee will be $15.60 annually, compared with the current $13.

Residents having only radios will continue paying at the current rate of $3.15 a year. But the rate for color TV will rise to $28.60 from $26.

Conservatives in the Commons raised loud protests over the fee increases. One of the opposition MPs suggested that extra BBC revenue could have come through introduction of advertising on the pop music network known as Radio 1.

To this, cries of "no" erupted from backbenchers of the governing Labor party.

But Stonehouse, whose post office department administers Britain's airwaves, seemed somewhat less adamant than his backbench colleagues.

"Commercial advertising on the BBC is ruled out for the time being, although one cannot anticipate what eventual decision may be made about BBC financing in the long run," the postmaster-general said.

FENCED IN
TILSTONE FEARNALL, England (CP) — The lifting of restrictions imposed during Britain's outbreak of foot-and-mouth disease released two stockmen from eight months self-imposed exile at a Cheshire cattle-breeding centre. They chose to stay in isolation to protect 30 bulls valued at more than $130,000 from infection.

Mini-Skirted And Youthful
Actress Aged 73 Now Stars

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "It's such a pleasure to be in a hit picture at last," says Ruth Gordon with all the verve of a starlet.

Miss Gordon resembles a starlet in her passion for her work, her youthful outlook, even her mini-skirts. But she is an unabashed 73—and still going at top speed.

She lately has been accorded more than the usual attention she gets as one of the country's most distinguished actresses and writers—she has written such plays as Over 21 and Years Ago and with her husband Garson Kanin produced the scripts of A Double Life, Adam's Rib and other films.

The reason for the fuss over Ruth Gordon is her performance in Rosemary's Baby, in which she plays Mia Farrow's nosy neighbor. Her work drew applause from preview audiences and predictions of an Academy Award nomination from critics.

PLAYED MASSEY'S WIFE
"All the other pictures I've made were unsuccessful," she remarked. "Abe Lincoln in Illinois, Dr. Erlich's Magic Bullet, Two-Faced Woman, Action in the North Atlantic—well, that one was a hit, but I only played a one-day bit in it as Raymond Massey's wife because he asked me to."

"Then there was Edge of Darkness, Inside Daisy Clover (which got her an Academy nomination) and Lord Love a Duck. None of them did for me what Rosemary's Baby has done; already I've had three offers for roles. I turned them down because they weren't different enough."

DONATES TO ART
MONTREAL (CP) — Percy Weissman, president of Liberty Smelting Works (1962) Ltd., has donated $10,000 to Sir George Williams University for the construction of additional art gallery facilities for the university's collection of Canadian art.

CAR THEFTS UP IN B.C.
Car thefts in Vancouver totalled 1,284 during the first six months of 1968—a 10 per cent increase over the same period of 1967.

"But the best part of the whole thing is the way the young crowd has taken to the role. They come up and compliment me at parties and on the street. I think that's simply great. You can grow old and you can get old—or you can grow old and stay with it. I much prefer to stay with it."

LIKES NEW THEATRE

There is no doubt that Miss Gordon is with it. She can talk with teen-agers on their own terms. She can rhapsodize over such new theatre as Hair and Your Own Thing. Mia Farrow calls her "my only hippie friend."

She appears to have no formula for her immense vitality beyond a three-mile daily walk and a sustaining interest in the world around her.

"People do retire, but that is something I can't understand," she remarked. "I once retired for all of five years. I had known success in the theatre, both as an actress and a playwright, and I had a happy marriage to Garson. I figured that was enough."

"I was retired just long enough to miss out on A Streetcar Named Desire. Irene Mayer Selznick, who produced the play, offered it to me, and I said thank you, but I am retired. Imagine—the part of a lifetime! Soon afterward I decided that retirement was not for me."

HOTTER THAN SUN
A carbon dioxide laser beam at Essex University, England, produced a temperature of 2,500,000 degrees centigrade 400 times the temperature of the sun.

Our Wealthiest Reprobate, -That What I Am Says Billy

TORONTO (CP) — "Who am I?" says Billy Van with a grin. "Well, I'm a . . . What am I?" Pause. Broad grin. "I'm a reprobate."

At 33, Toronto-born Billy Van is probably Canada's wealthiest reprobate, if such he can be called. He won't say what his income is, but guesses range around the $75,000-a-year mark.

A CBC veteran of 14 years, he has been described by people like CBC producer Paddy Sampson as the "most versatile talent on Canadian TV."

Until last spring, Billy was the star of Nightcap, a low-budget, late-night satirical show in which he sang, danced, and played 101 characters in the four years of the show's existence.

After Nightcap folded and Billy was informed in "one of those polite CBC letters" that his contract would not be renewed, he put together a 20-minute kinescope showing selections from his Nightcap and commercial work and headed for Hollywood.

"I'm a die-hard Canadian," he says. "I want to work here. But I'm not a fool. I've been with the CBC 14 years. I've made two pilots in four years. I guess the CBC doesn't feel I'm ready yet. Well, I'm not going to knock my head against a stone wall."

If the CBC isn't buying, the American television barons are. Billy has been signed for a late-night satirical show with ABC, to run monthly in the fall and weekly in the new year.

"My old cohort in crime, Al Hamel, is to be host of the show," he says.

Hamel, also a Nightcap veteran, lined Billy up with a manager.

SS Minto Blazes Away

NELSON (CP)—A plume of smoke that rose 2,000 feet above the Columbia River Thursday signalled the end of SS Minto, Queen of the Arrow Lakes.

The Minto was towed out into midstream by two tugs and Walter Nelson of Galena Bay, final owner of the sternwheeler, touched the torch to her.

In a blaze that seemed extremely brief to the few bystanders who watched her burn, the ship became a charred hulk that settled 45 feet beneath the river waters.

In preparation for the burning, the Minto was pumped dry by crews from B.C. Hydro, then floated at her moorings.

The burning came after nearly a decade of efforts to save the paddlewheeler.

She had made her last trip April 24, 1954, under Captain J. C. Gore and carried a roster of long-time residents of the area.

Brando-Movita Marriage Ends

HOLLYWOOD (Reuters) — The 1960 marriage of actor Marlon Brando and Mexican actress Movita has been dissolved in a hearing so secret the court records were ordered sealed at the request of both parties. Judge Edward R. Brand said Monday the rare closed-door annulment was conducted to protect the two children of Brando and Movita from scandal.

"There is no such thing as a good manager in Canada," Billy says. "In the U.S., a manager is an absolute must. You can't get inside a door without one."

Billy Van has been getting inside a lot of doors lately. He is under consideration for guest appearances on the Jerry Lewis Show, Laugh-In and the Smothers Brothers Show.

But he still has a lot of irons in the fire in his home country. He has a knack for bringing out the best in singing groups, and is in constant demand as a choral director. He is often called upon to cast singing commercials and shows. He hasn't been entirely forsaken by the CBC either—he will be working on a Brenda Lee special and several other shows for them.

MONEY COUNTS

Billy admits he's a "kook"—he once bought a London taxicab and talked customs officials into letting it into Canada as a "theatrical prop." He admits to fighting a lot with his wife, singer Patty Van, "but it's healthy."

"He's the wildest son-in-law in the world," says Patty's mother. "But we all love Billy. He's funnier in person than he is even on TV. But he can be very serious, too."

A serious Billy Van says he's changed a lot in the last year. "I used to be a lot freer. Now it's a business. I'll be funny when it counts. I don't mind being called a fool. But I want the bankroll to go with it."

SHIP SERVICE ENDS

ARICHAT, N.S. (CP) — The last of the coastal passenger and freight boats that served eastern Nova Scotia ports has been taken out of service. Trucks and roads have ended the boat service of the Vanahelm, which the Langely Shipping Ltd. says will no longer carry freight in the Strait of Canso area.

Scholarship Led Diane To Folk-Singing Career

TORONTO (CP) — A scholarship to study classical music was what led Catherine McKinnon into becoming a sort of folk-singer.

"I call myself a singer of folk songs, not a folk-singer, and that's a different thing. I don't conform to the image, I don't play a guitar, I don't take my shoes off or wear the beads; I just don't go that route.

"If you have the material and it's strong, I don't think you need the appearance.

"It took me months to get into the swing of what it's all about. So much of folk music is a protest or political, and I don't think that's what you're there for, to sing about your ideas. I like Canadian material, things in a minor key, songs that are strong, but not saccherine."

Catherine says she has wanted to be a singer since she was knee high. She began at five, piping All I Want for Christmas for an audience of parents and friends at Camp Shilo, Man. Her father, Sgt. Gordon McKinnon, was posted there with the Royal Canadian Army Medical Corps.

ON SUMMER SHOW

The family moved to Churchill, Man.; to Saint John, N.B., where Catherine had been born; to London, Ont., and then Halifax. All along the way, Catherine sang.

"I was on radio when I was eight, and television when I was 11."

She studied voice and piano at Mount St. Vincent Academy in Halifax, and won a four-month scholarship to the Royal Conservatory of Music in Toronto. It started her pop career, because she couldn't afford to take advantage of it without first working to save money.

She auditioned for and won a spot on Singalong Jubilee, a summer network CBC show from Halifax that specializes in folk music. When its 13 weeks were over, she got another job in Halifax, still intending to use the scholarship as soon as possible.

"Then one day I was walking down a CBC corridor and someone said, 'Would you like to do a guest on the Don Messer show?' so there went the conservatory."

Now, many Don Messer shows later, she has worked in Spring Thaw, at the Charlottetown Festival, done folk concerts for Centennial Year, club work and made five recordings. The current one is called Both Sides Now.

This summer Catherine is commuting between Toronto and Halifax, between the grandstand show at the Canadian National Exhibition and Singalong Jubilee.

Jane Russell Gains Divorce

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Actress Jane Russell, 47, divorced former football star Bob Waterfield, 48, Tuesday with testimony he rarely was home during the last year of their 25-year marriage.

Miss Russell was winning renown as the star of a Howard Hughes film, The Outlaw, and Waterfield was the ace quarterback of the UCLA Bruins when they married in 1943.

She went on to leads in many other films, and he became a professional football star with Los Angeles Rams.

Waterfield is now a Rams scout. In a cross-complaint to her action he had charged habitual intemperance.

Star Misses Star! Premiere

LONDON (Reuters) — Julie Andrews missed the world premiere of her $10,000,000 picture Star! last week.

It was the most lavish London opening-night since before the Second World War, with seats costing up to £78 ($234).

Spokesmen here said Miss Andrews was held to a filming schedule in Brussels by Paramount Pictures.

Star! is the story of Gertrude Lawrence, who rose from a London slum to be a star actress and international society figure between the two world wars.

It is directed by Robert Wise, who also directed Miss Andrews's smash hit The Sound of Music.

Despite the ballyhoo, London critics gave the 20th Century Fox movie a mixed reception.

NBC Plugs Negro Shows

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—NBC is spending a few hundred thousand dollars on the proposition that advertisers and audiences will support a weekly television variety show enacted entirely by Negroes.

Last week the pilot film of Soul, a one-hour musical with Lou Rawls, Nipsy Russel, Redd Fox, Chambers Brothers, George Kirby and others was taped at the NBC Burbank studios. No one would say what the cost was, but comparable specials cost $300,000 or more.

The show is aimed for presentation as a special, possibly this fall, with the hopes that it might lead to a weekly series during the January switch in programming. That was the history of last season's biggest hit, Laugh-In. It is no coincidence that Soul is being presented by the Laugh-In mentors, producer George Schlatter and his partner, Ed Friendly and the writer-creator of the show, Digby Wolfe.

Schlatter and Wolfe discussed the origins of Soul. "It happened on the night of the Emmies," said Schlatter. Laugh-In walked off with four awards that night.

"It was one of the great coincidences of all time. I told Digby that I had just received approval that day to go ahead with an all-Negro musical hour aimed for a weekly series."

RECEIVES APPROVAL

"And I told George that just that day we had received approval from the Writers Guild to admit three Negro writers for the purpose of working on just such a show," said Wolfe.

"These were people from the Watts Writers Workshop, where I had been working for some time, and the discussions about the show had been going on for a year."

Old Putter Helps Jack

CHICAGO (AP) — Jack Nicklaus, who hasn't won a golf tournament since the Sahara Invitational last October, used an old putter and shot a six-under-par 65 Thursday to take a two-stroke, first-round lead in the chase for the $26,000 top prize of the Western Open.

The '65 matched the course record set by the late Lawson Little in 1940.

Since winning the U.S. Open last year at Baltusrol with a record 275, Nicklaus has been going steady with a putter called White Fang because of the color of the blade.

"I haven't been doing so well with it so for this tournament I decided to get out my old Lowe putter that I used in winning the 1966 British Open," he said.

"This is the first time this year that I have put a putting round with the rest of the game."

Nicklaus had 30 putts including six one-putt greens.

TWO TIED AT 67

Two strokes behind Nicklaus entering today's second round were Terry Dill, seeking his first victory since turning pro in 1962, and Miller Barber, winner of this year's Nelson Classic.

Barber fired a 30-37-67.

"That 30 on the front side was the greatest nine holes I ever played," he said.

It included five birdie putts ranging from one foot to 12 feet.

Dill said he played "in pure fright" in bagging his 33-34-67.

"I actually thought I would be lucky to break 80," said Dill. "I guess I did something right but I don't know what it was."

Tom Weiskopf, the leading tour money winner, was in the 70 bracket and Arnold Palmer was buried at 74.

Toronto Chairman Highest Paid Municipal Official

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

A $7,000 pay boost to $35,000 annually for William Allen, Metropolitan Toronto chairman, makes him the highest-paid municipal official in Canada.

The $35,000 is a straight basic salary with none of the many fringe benefits attached to the salaries of other high-ranking city administrators across Canada.

A Cross-Canada Survey by The Canadian Press shows Mr. Allen receives the highest basic salary among civil administrators, with mayors of several large cities considerably less.

In Montreal, for example, Mayor Jean Drapeau receives $22,500 plus $6,000 for expenses and $650 as a member of the Montreal Metropolitan Commission.

The chairman of Montreal's executive committee gets $18,000 annually, but as a city councillor, he is paid an additional salary of $3,500 and $650 expenses.

Toronto Mayor William Denison also fits into the high-salary category, earning $25,000, but there are no extras.

The Quebec City mayor also makes $25,000, but $7,000 of this is for expenses, leaving his basic salary at $18,000.

Hamilton Mayor Vic Copps receives $18,000 a year plus $2,500 for his membership on the police commission. But a third of his total salary is for expenses and is exempt from taxes. His membership on the hydro-electric power commission provides him with an additional—taxable—$2,000.

Ottawa Mayor Don Reid gets $18,700 annually, but it includes: $8,000 basic mayor's salary, $2,000 mayor's expenses, $1,834 for his city council membership and another $1,666 for council member's expenses. $700 as a member of the police commission, $3,000 as a hydro-electric commission member, and $1,500 as a member of the transit commission.

In Windsor, Ont., the mayor gets an annual remuneration of $15,360 plus a travel allowance of $1,500. He receives $10,700 as salary; $2,160 as a member of the city utilities commission and $2,500 as a member of the police commission.

In London, Ont., Mayor Herb McClure will earn $16,500 this year. Yet only $3,000—less than a third of his earnings—represents his basic salary.

In Western Canada, the salary schedules seem less confusing.

The Vancouver mayor makes a straight $16,000 and the mayor of Victoria receives $10,000 of which $2,500 is allotted for non-taxable expenses.

Stephen Juba, mayor of Winnipeg, receives $11,800 a year, which includes $3,800 in tax-free expenses.

Regina's population is 131,127, yet with the mayor's $14,400 salary—including expenses of $2,400—he is well above the salary of Winnipeg's mayor, who oversees a population of 257,005.

In the Maritimes, salaries are

U.S. Post Office Official Sets Stamp Issue Straight

WASHINGTON (CP) — A

senior U.S. post office official here has denied that Canadian postage is required on letters brought from Canada to be mailed in the United States.

William H. McMillan, assistant postmaster-general in charge of operations, said he had informed the U.S. bureau of customs that mail is not mailed until it is given into post office custody.

Canadian postage on mail posted in the United States is unacceptable, he said.

A customs official added that no new orders have been issued regarding special handling of parcels—which appears to include letters—brought into the U.S. for mailing.

The statements appear to put events at Great Falls, Mont., and Blaine, Wash., this week in the category of local misunderstandings.

Fred McMillan, the port director of customs at Blaine, said Tuesday he had been ordered not to allow first-class Canadian mail into the U.S. unless it carried full Canadian postage. Then the sender would have to buy U.S. stamps to cover the mailing in Blaine.

In Seattle on Wednesday, J. B. Christensen, assistant to the regional post office director, said McMillan had misinterpreted orders.

Said Christensen: "I have told them (customs officials) have been notified by the customs bureau in Washington to handle first-class mail as they did previously."

That would mean to make the usual inspection given all parcels entering the U.S., to ascertain whether any duty must be paid.

And a customs official here Wednesday night said that customs inspectors are to handle letters being brought in for mailing just as though they were parcels, subject to inspection. To facilitate this inspection, the envelopes and packages should be left unsealed.

The spokesman here said the principal concern of customs is that the letters brought in for mailing contain no merchandise.

Canadian postal officials in Ottawa had expressed surprise and some concern Wednesday about the report that the customs station at Blaine was insisting on first-class postage on letters being carried into the U.S.

A spokesman said this was not being done through any suggestion from Canada, which had no objection to its citizens using the U.S. mails during the current postal strike across Canada.

"Americans have no use for our stamps," said the spokesman.

BIDDING QUIZ

You are South, neither side vulnerable. The bidding has been:

| North | East | South | West |
|-------|------|-------|------|
| 1♠ | Pass | 1♦ | Pass |
| 3♦ | Pass | ? | ? |

What would you bid now with each of the following five hands?

1. ♠KJ74 ♥6 ♦Q852 ♣Q943
2. ♠K75432 ♥K ♦K84 ♣K72
3. ♠K863 ♥972 ♦QJ9 ♣QJ5
4. ♠AJ985 ♥J83 ♦KJ ♣A63
5. ♠KQ96 ♥Q5 ♦762 ♣AJ86

1. Four spades. The jump raise is not forcing, though it does carry a strong invitation to game. The opener generally has about 18 points, part of which may be in distributional values. In addition, the opener guarantees four - card trump support.

There is ample reason to go on to four spades. The hand is a queen better than a minimum spade response; we can very likely make at least ten tricks.

2. Four notrump. A slam is very probable and the number of tricks we can take will almost surely depend on how many aces North has for his jump raise. Blackwood is therefore used to elicit this information.

If North responds five spades (showing three aces), we bid six. If North shows four aces by responding five clubs (indicating no aces or all four aces) we undertake a grand slam. Of course, if North responds five hearts (showing only two aces) we quit at five spades.

3. Three notrump. Nine tricks at notrump might prove easier to make than ten tricks at spades. Partner usually converts to four spades in this sequence because of his distributional values, but occasionally he has a notrump type of hand and will pass.

4. Six spades. Since we have a full opening bid of our own, greatly enhanced by the known spade fit, we are practically sure to have an excellent chance for a slam. Partner jumped to three spades when, so far as he knew, our spade response might have been based on 6 points.

The alternative bid is four clubs, intending to contract for at least six spades later on, but the chances of a grand slam are slim and it is probably better to use the direct method of getting to six. There is not much point in unnecessarily disclosing information to the opponents.

5. Four clubs. Again there is a chance of a slam, but whether it can be made depends largely on the makeup of North's hand, especially with reference to his diamond holding. The four club bid is a slam try, for if we were interested only in game we would bid four spades directly. The eventual contract depends on North's response to the cue-bid.

YOUR HOROSCOPE

FOR TOMORROW

Stellar influences now bring a tendency toward restlessness, which will cause many to go off on unprofitable tangents in order to escape routine or monotony; could also cause emotional upsets and general jitteriness. Do your best to curb such inclinations yourself. A good day for initiating new methods, however.

FOR THE BIRTHDAY

If tomorrow is your birthday, the year ahead should bring great happiness in your personal life. Domestic, social and sentimental interests should prove highly stimulating, with emphasis on romance during October, next April and June; on travel and social activities in October, January, April, May and June. In the latter connection, you will find many opportunities for making some valuable new contacts.

Where job matters are concerned, excellent headway can be made through a comprehensive and well-planned program — if you launch it immediately and follow through consistently. Advancement, with corresponding monetary reward, can be expedited by extending your scope of activity and showing a willingness to assume additional responsibilities. Most auspicious periods along material lines: The weeks between the 15th of this month and November 1st, the first half of January, late February, the latter halves of March and May and all of next June. Do avoid extravagance and/or speculation during late September and throughout October, however; also during the latter half of December. Caution during the September period will be extremely important. A child born on this day will be extraordinarily ambitious and independent, but may have to curb tendencies toward domineering and extravagance.

Veiled Threats At Peace Talks

PARIS (AP) — North Vietnamese diplomats participating in the Paris peace talks are dropping hints that the talks may fail unless President Johnson ends the bombing of North Vietnam.

U.S. officials regard the veiled threats as a part of the drive North Vietnam has made since the talks began 2½ months ago to build up massive public opinion against the U.S. position that North Vietnam must give something in return.

The drive was intensified Wednesday after the North Vietnamese apparently decided that statements by U.S. State Secretary Dean Rusk made speculation about an early change in U.S. bombing policy untenable. Rusk said Tuesday that the U.S. government would have to be told what North Vietnam would do before it could end the bombing.

Premiers A Bit Uneasy Over Medicare Schism

WASKESIU, Sask. (CP) — The annual premiers' conference winds up today after a telegraphed appeal to Prime Minister Trudeau for a conference on medical care, and following expressed uneasiness over widening gaps between provincial expenses and revenue potentials.

The unified approach to these key conference issues, formal in the case of medical care and individually voiced concern over finances, brought pressure on an unwritten conference rule not to gang up on Ottawa.

Leaders of the nine provincial delegations also came close Thursday to agreeing on a renewed approach to Ottawa on division of tax revenues between the federal and provincial governments.

They indicated at a news conference following Thursday's closed sessions their tax resources have been too limited to a sum of their responsibilities alone, and that in the next few years there will be a rapidly widening gap between tax revenues and expenditures.

Behind their concern was a common desire to obtain adequate tax resources to fulfill responsibilities in health, education and other areas where provincial governments have constitutional jurisdiction.

They felt Ottawa's cost-sharing arrangements, designed to help the provinces' fiscal difficulties, were not adequate and the federal government's insistence on setting out criteria for the programs was often not in accord with many provinces' own priorities.

The telegram to Mr. Trudeau said there was "deep and broad concern" expressed at the conference about the financial implications of health care, in view of increasing costs of existing plans.

Only Saskatchewan and British Columbia now participate in the federal medical care program and are the only provinces receiving federal cost-sharing to pay about 50 per cent of the programs.

To join the federal scheme, a province must meet Ottawa's requirements. These call for provincial schemes to be operated by public, non-profit bodies, to cover 90 per cent of its population, insure a comprehensive range of physicians' services and be portable among provinces.

Premiers at the conference are Campbell of Prince Edward Island, Smith of Nova Scotia, Robarts of Ontario, Weir of Manitoba, Manning of Alberta and Thatcher of Saskatchewan. Cabinet ministers represent British Columbia, Quebec and New Brunswick. Newfoundland does not attend the conferences.

At a news conference Thursday, Mr. Thatcher said the provinces' possible unified approach to Ottawa on general fiscal questions included study of financing on all provincial programs, including medical insurance.

He said the provinces might ask Ottawa to reallocate tax fields, or for more lump-sum grants without attached strings.

"I think the provinces unanimously felt that something must be done within the next three or four years," Mr. Thatcher said. He noted that projection worked out by the federal-provincial tax structure committee over the last several years have shown that provincial expenditures will rise steeply in the next decade, while federal expenditures will increase much less rapidly.

Roman Catholic Theologian Comments On Pope's Report

TORONTO (CP) — Rev. Gregory Baum, one of Canada's foremost Roman Catholic theologians, says Roman Catholics may dissent from the Pope's ban on all forms of artificial birth control and follow their "own tested conscience."

He says they can do this "if they have formed deep convictions on the morality of birth control."

"Catholics who cannot accept the papal teaching on birth control need not leave the Catholic Church. Nor do they become hypocrites by staying in the church."

Father Baum, a member of the Basilian order who teaches theology at St. Michael's College at the University of Toronto, commented in a bylined story today in The Globe and Mail on Pope Paul's encyclical announced in Rome Monday.

Father Baum said the papal position on birth control is not an article of faith.

"Papal infallibility has to do with what Jesus Christ taught us to believe and taught us to do (faith and morals). But the evaluation of birth control has to do with human wisdom. . . . In this area the church has the authority to teach but here its teaching is always non-infallible and changeable."

Father Baum says Catholics are free to dissent from an authoritative, non-infallible position of the church when their "tested convictions demand it."

"This freedom will be widely used by Catholics in regard to the papal encyclical on birth control."

"A man must act according to his deep convictions about the meaning of human life. A man must follow his tested conscience."

"If a marriage is orientated toward love and children in a general way, there may be circumstances in which contraceptive birth regulation is permissible and moral. It is quite widely held by theologians, even by the more cautious, that since the pill does not interfere with the performance of the sexual act, its use is morally indistinguishable from the rhythm method."

"Catholic people will not find the papal encyclical easy to follow. It will be difficult for bishops and priests to explain it to the people. It is difficult to explain how a rule of life that is based on natural law and hence corresponds to the universal moral experience of man, is advocated in the present culture only by the Catholic church, unless one wanted to suggest that the consciences of other men and even other churches are so corrupt that they are no longer in touch with the foundation of human morality."

Replica Of Sternwheeler To Ply Okanagan Lake

The M.V. Fintry, a replica of the sternwheelers that plied Okanagan Lake many years ago, is expected to make her maiden voyage Aug. 7 from Kelowna, her home port.

The 150-passenger cruise boat will begin her daily tourist cruises on that date if she passes the Department of Transport inspection, currently being carried out. Docking at Kelowna, the craft will make several trips a day to Fintry, about 20 miles north of Kelowna on the west bank.

Although schedules and passenger rates have not been finalized, it is known that the M.V. Fintry will make special dance cruises on Saturdays leaving Kelowna in the early evening for the dance at Fintry and returning early Sunday morning.

Entertainment aboard such as deck games, competitions, music and informative commentary on points of interest will be features of the cruise.

A group of Vancouver businessmen originated the idea for a tourist cruiser on the lake and finally picked Kelowna as a home port for the vessel.

They have spent about $80,000 renovating and repairing the "Lequime," a ferry boat purchased from Vernon Marinas. Many Kelowna businesses were involved in the conversion, with the general contract handled by a Vancouver firm.

The Jerry's massive old engines, stripped of parts over the years, were replaced with two caterpillar diesel engines of 200 horsepower each. This operation, plus carpenter and painting renovations, was done at the ferry slip at Westbank. The vessel was then moved back up to the Fintry Marina where the sternwheel, lifeboats, wiring and other specifications were added.

As well as its daily cruises during the summer, the M.V. Fintry will be available for charter in the spring and fall seasons. It is expected that conventions will provide a large part of the charter business.

Skipped by Capt. Don Peck of Kelowna, the open deck sternwheeler will carry a crew of four: first mate, Peter Gravelle; engineer, Carl Gray; and two deck hands. Capt. Peck was partially in charge of the renovations to the boat.

Temporary docking facilities have been arranged for the craft at the Kelowna Yacht Club, with a view to permanent docking plans to follow. The M.V. Fintry's first cruise up the lake will be one of the many events planned for opening day of the International Regatta.

Ottawa Faces Thorny Problem On Strikes In Vital Services

OTTAWA (CP) — No matter what happens in the postal strike, the next Parliament is going to have to deal with the question of whether strikes should be permitted in essential public services.

The government is not likely to take any action until it has a report from the special committee studying federal labor legislation and the whole field of labor relations. This report is due in December.

However, the issue is almost certain to be raised by opposition MPs in light of the severe effect of the postal strike on many businesses.

GIVEN OPTION

The right to strike was given to public servants for the first time under legislation that came into effect a year ago. Each category was given the option of arbitration, with a board handing down binding settlements in any dispute, or the strike weapon.

The majority of bargaining groups chose arbitration.

A well patronized afternoon tea was held in connection with the flower show, served by a committee headed by Mrs. R. E. Gunner, the secretary-treasurer, assisted by Mrs. John Baustad, the vice president. There were a number of stalls in operation, including a home baking stall, with Mrs. Iona Peel in charge. A "white elephant" stall, with a wide variety of items, Mrs. George Cross being in charge of this, while Mrs. Donald McNeven attended to the sewing stall.

The door prize was a very fine handmade quilt, designed by, and very largely the work of, Mrs. George Cross which was won by Mrs. Brian Burnell. An auction was also conducted of items donated by various merchants of the district. Mrs. Barber acting as auctioneer. A contest involving the weight of a cake resulted in a six way tie, all six guesses being one ounce out, and the winner was decided by a draw, with Mrs. E. S. Bush being the winner. Presentation of the various awards was made by Mrs. Barber, convener of the Flower Show committee. Regrets were expressed at the unavoidable absence of the president of the Rutland Women's Institute, Mrs. Edward Burnell, from the annual flower show due to illness.
